TO-DAY'S DOINGS IN THIS TOWN

Personal Notes and Brief Mention of Many Things.

THE WEATHER—For Ohio, Wednesday, continued cold and fair, slightly warmer by Thursday afternoon.

Miss Victoria Paul is visiting friends in Canton.

Mr. Le Roy Pfouts, of Canton, was in the city Tuesday.

Mrs. Ora Brownsberger, of Canton, visited in the city yesterday.

L. Prime, Massillon, is registered at the New England House, Cleveland.

The West Side meat market firm of Nelson & Edginton has been dissolved.

Austin A. Hay, a leading merchant of Beach City, was in town to-day on business.

The Rev. W. O. Siffert will lecture on "Gettysburg" at New Berlin next Saturday evening.

Prayer meeting services will be held for the last time at the Christian church, on Hill street, this evening.

Mr. Will Camp and Miss Allie Mc-

Catchlon, of Canton, were guests of Miss Ada Siffert yesterday evening.

Mrs. Barnes, of Lodi, who has been at Dell Roy, attended the funeral of her brother, is the guest of her son, Dr. S. P.

Barnes.

Mr. and Mrs. Theo. Gertz and family returned this noon from a two weeks' visit with Mrs. Gertz's parents at Johnsonville, Trumbull county.

Massillon (German) Lodge I. O. O. F.

will entertain as their guests, at a meeting this evening, a number of their brethren from the German lodge in Canton.

The Rev. Jeffries, of Orrville, will give a rare elocutionary treat, consisting of recitations, etc., at North Lawrence next

Friday evening, Feb. 6th. The proceeds will be for the benefit of the public school of that place.

The first of a series of three entertainments to be given by Daniel Ritter Camp

Sons of Veterans will take place at Bucher's to-morrow night, the attraction being

"The Drummer Boy of Shiloh." The advance sale of seats is already large.

School children admitted for 15 cents the opening night.

The elegant new room in the Harsh block, corner of Main and Erie streets, to be occupied by Goodhart Bros. clothing store, is rapidly approaching completion. The shelving and counters are completed, the carpenters and painters have about finished their work, and it will be ready for occupancy within a few days.

Judge Pearce, of New Philadelphia yesterday, appointed John A. Himes of that city, receiver of the New Philadelphia Paper Company, of which Hein-gartner, Bachert & Co. are proprietors.

The cause is because of some differences between Messrs. Heingartner and Bachert, which could only be settled by having a receiver appointed.

James Eckroate, a young man who was well known in this city, died at his home in Navarre last night. He was associated with his father, Louis Eck-roate, in conducting a grocery and saloon in that village, and was about 30 years of age. He was married to a daughter of Lewis Gise, of this city, and leaves a widow and infant son.

Mrs. Eliza McConnell, wife of James

McConnell, died about 7 o'clock last night at her home in Jackson township, from lung fever, after a sickness of nineteen days, aged 86 years. Mrs. McConnell was one of the pioneers of this section, having been a resident of the township where she died more than fifty years. Mr. McConnell, to whom the deceased was married thirty-five years ago, was her third husband.

Andy Dangeleisen and Jack Boyd hired Abe Keller's black and bay team yesterday morning to go to North Lawrence, and they went. They intended to return in the afternoon, but put the horses in a stable when they got there.

When about ready to start home the front of the place they were stopping at,

but when they came to look for them the animals and vehicle had disappeared.

Thinking they had been stolen, the men came home on the 9:25 p. m. train, and this morning learned that the horses had been unhitched out of pure cussedness by an unknown person and had stood in an alley all night without any protection from the cold. Mr. Keller went over this morning and secured his property.

The first of the series of the Coterie dances, arranged to be given alternately in Canton and Massillon, was given in Odd Fellows' Hall last night and was one of the most enjoyable and successful events of the season. About thirty couples participated in the festi-ties to the entrancing music furnished by the reorganized opera house orchestra.

Delicious ices were served during the night by Prof. Walter Giese, which were greatly appreciated. The Canton guests were the Messrs. Hill and the Messrs. Trout,

the Messrs. Dewese, Con

THE DAY IN CONGRESS.

DIPLOMATIC AND CONSULAR APPROPRIATION BILL IN THE HOUSE.

After Passing Bills of Minor Importance the Balance of the Day Was Spent in Debate—The Bill to Amend the Revised Statutes Regarding Vacancies of Heads of Departments Through Death, Sickness or Absence Was Passed—Fortification Bill Discussed at Length.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—In the senate Tuesday session bill was passed amending sections 4783 and 5486 of the revised statutes, providing penalties for embezzlement of pensions by the guardian of the pension office. House bill to amend section 180 of the revised statutes, in reference to temporary designations to fill vacancies in case of death, sickness or absence of heads of departments, was reported back with a substitute. The substitute was to amend the sections of the revised statutes on that subject, and limits to thirty days the period of such designation, except where the duties are exercised by the assistant secretary, in which case there is no limitation. Discussion showed the sentiment to be in favor of the house bill. So the substitute was rejected and the house bill passed. The senate then resumed consideration of the fortification bill. In the item appropriating $1,000,000 for purchase of oil-tempered and annealed steel for high-power coast defense guns of 9, 8, 10 and 12-inch calibre, the committee on appropriations recommended a reduction of the amount to $800,000, which, after discussion, was agreed to.

The Next Amendment Reported by the committee on appropriations was to insert the following paragraph: "For breech-loading sea coast mortars, cast iron, hooped with steel of twelve-inch calibre, $400,000, provided that contracts may be made for not more than one-half of the mortars herein provided for to be constructed on the Pacific coast in the discretion of the secretary of war." Mr. Chandler moved to amend the paragraph so as to make it read: "For breech-loading, rifled steel mortars of twelve-inch calibre," etc. The amendment was discussed at much length, but no action was reached. Senate bill authorizing the secretary of war to have A Suitable Site Selected for a military post and harbor defenses at San Diego, Cal., and to report the cost thereof to congress was also passed. Mr. Morgan gave notice that on Friday morning he would ask to take up the bill to amend the act incorporating the Nicaragua maritime canal company and would submit some remarks upon it. On motion of Mr. Spooner the senate concurred in the house amendment to the senate bill for a public building at St. Paul, reducing the amount from $1,500,000. The bill now goes to the president. The military academy appropriation bill was reported and Mr. Allison said that he would ask the senate Wednesday to take it up and pass it. The senate, after a short executive session, at 5:35, adjourned.

Proceedings in the House. After the approval of the journal the house proceeded to dispose of various private business on the speaker's table, referring the measures to committees or sending them to conference. Senate bills authorizing the Norfolk and Western Railroad company to bridge the Tug fork of the Big Sandy river and prohibiting the sale of tobacco to minors under 16 years of age in the District of Columbia were passed. Senate amendments were concurred in to public bill to promote the construction of a safe deep water harbor on the coast of Texas. The house then went into committee of the whole on the diplomatic and consular appropriation bill. Mr. Dalzell, of Pennsylvania, came to the defense of Commander Reiter. In due time he proposed to submit some remarks in support of these propositions; first, that the secretary of the navy had no right under the law to administer a public reprimand to Commander Reiter, as he had done, by the insulting letter published in the press; second, that Reiter and Mizner had followed international law as practiced in the last fifty years in the country's history. After further debate by Mr. Blanchard, of Louisiana, and Mr. McCreary, of Kentucky, in support of the action of the secretary of state and of the secretary of the navy, the committee, without disposing of the bill, rose and the house adjourned.

A BIG PIPE LINE. It Will Extend from the Mt. Morris Fields to Philadelphia.

WHEELING, W. VA., Feb. 4.—The largest oil pipe line leading into Philadelphia will be completed during the present week. It will extend from Morgantown, the center of the Doll's Run and Mount Morris oil field, to the works of the Atlantic Refining company, at Point Breeze, in the lower section of that city. The line will have a capacity of 15,000 barrels of oil per day, and will be used to its full pumping ability for some time to come. This new connection with the southwestern oil fields is quite an important thing for Philadelphia, inasmuch as it will raise the quota to 25 per cent.

NOTHING BUT CIGARS AND WATER.

A Fast of Thirty Days by a Man Who Weighs but One Hundred and Twenty.

FT. WAYNE, IND., Feb. 4.—After entertaining a large number of friends at his last dinner Abraham Gump entered upon his thirty-day fast for $1,000, wagered by Col. James Geary, that he cannot do it and live. The colonel has four watchmen, who are with him, and there is no chance that Gump will be able to get at any food. He is allowed cigars and water in any quantity. He weighed 126 when he entered on his fast.

Resolutions Against the Conger Land Bill.

LINCOLN, NEB., Feb. 4.—The house and senate yesterday adopted a resolution introduced by Wilson, of Webster county, an alliance member, declaring that the passage by congress of the Conger compound land bill would injure the 16,000 head of cattle owned by Nebraska citizens at least $5,000,000 and denouncing the bill as being in the interest of pork packers, who have an army of paid convancers in the west obtaining petitions in its favor. The resolution endorses the Paddock pure food bill.

AN INVESTIGATION ORDERED.

Boston Has a City Ring Too Which the Mayor Holds Up.

BOSTON, Feb. 4.—Mayor Matthews has sent an elaborate communication to the board of aldermen, in which he outlines certain charges against Police Commissioner Osborne, and calls upon the board to ask for a legislative investigation of the matter. One of the charges involves the efforts of the New England Printing Telegraph company to secure locations for its poles in Boston. This New England company is the branch of a general company, of which Abner McKinley, brother of Congressman McKinley, of Ohio, is secretary and treasurer. The McKinleys and Commissioner Osborne are cousins, and Mayor Matthews intimates that the latter used his official position to help the enterprise. The board unanimously asks the legislature to order an investigation.

ARKANSAS VERY POOR.

No Appropriation Made for the Columbian Exposition at Chicago.

LITTLE ROCK, ARK., Feb. 4.—The joint committee of the house and senate has adopted a resolution refusing to recommend any appropriation for the Columbian exposition at Chicago. A member of the committee stated that, owing to the large deficiency in the state treasury, it was inexpedient to make any expenditures that could be avoided. A resolution to appropriate $50,000 for the Arkansas industrial exposition was also defeated, and the committee adopted a report recommending that no appropriation be made by this legislature for other than indispensable expenses.

Kerr Announces for Clerk.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—Representative Kerr, of Pennsylvania, has announced himself a candidate for the clerkship of the next house. Though Mr. Kerr is one of the youngest members of the present congress, he has made an excellent record in the house and covered himself with glory by his successful management of the Patterson campaign in Pennsylvania. Mr. Kerr not only sacrificed his private interests in order to devote all his time to Patterson's campaign, but he also sacrificed himself politically, for while he was working for the good of the party in the whole state another man defeated him for re-nomination in the Twenty-eighth district.

Weather Crop Bulletin.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—The weather crop bulletin for the month ending January 31, 1891, issued from the signal office yesterday, says: There was no snow on the ground at the close of the month over the entire wheat belt extending from Tennessee northward to the lakes and from Ohio to Kansas, and although the weather during the month was, owing to the uniformly high temperature, generally favorable to the growing crop, the approaching cold wave and attending decided freeze leave its condition uncertain.

Duty Must be Paid on Presents.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—The treasury department has informed Mr. James Kison, president of the Iron and Steel institute, Gledhow hall, Leeds, Eng., that the law will not permit the free entry into this country of a number of valuable presents, such as silver cups, candlebrs, etc., which the institute desired to present to certain gentlemen of this country as testimonials of appreciation for courtesies received on the occasion of the visit of the institute to the United States in October, 1890.

Agricultural Appropriation Bill Finished. WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—The house committee on agriculture yesterday completed its appropriation bill for the coming fiscal year. The bill carries an appropriation of $2,604,855 and is $7,150 less than the estimates submitted. Of this amount $879,753 is for the support of the weather bureau, which is to be transferred to the agriculture department on the 1st of July next.

Monthly Debt Statement.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—The treasury department monthly debt statement for January, owing to the death of Secy. Windom, was not issued until yesterday. The reduction in the public debt during the past month of January, as shown by the statement, amounted to $15,854,496, and for the seven months of the current fiscal year, or since July 1, 1890, amounted to $41,580,127.

Total Coinage at the Mints.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—The total coinage at the mints of the United States during the month of January was 10,258,162 pieces, of the value of $6,508,736.20, of which $2,720,000 was gold; $3,653,936 gold, and $134,800 nickel.

Fifty Killed and Two Hundred Injured. LONDON, Feb. 4.—It is now stated that fifty were killed and 200 injured in Saturday's outbreak at Oporto.

NEWS BRIEFLY TOLD.

It is reported on Wall street that the Rockefeller interests have sold the largest portion of their holdings in Northern Pacific, having made a handsome turn in the market.

John Lonsdale Dewhite, of North Adams, Mass., aged 30, was arrested, charged with bigamy, Tuesday. His wife is only 17, and it is stated that he has another at Montreal with three children.

The executive committee of the Wholesale Druggists' association will hold a special meeting in New York City this week, for the purpose of devising a plan to prevent the ruinous cutting in the prices of patent medicines.

On Saturday a shipment of pipe from the National tube works, McKeesport, Pa., was made, the destination of which is the oil fields of Russia. At the same time was consigned a quantity of pipe for the oil regions of Roumania.

The old fight between the Pittsburgh and Philadelphia barbers has been re-opened. The Quaker City tonsorial artists desire the repeal of the law against Sunday opening. Pittsburghers think they should have one day's rest and will oppose the attempt to repeal the law.

Mr. Gould and party left Monday for his southern trip. All kind of railroad combinations are beginning to be talked about. The railroad commissioners report progress. They have finished their work about division of territory, but must settle the difficult question of percentage.

Engineer Robert Brown was killed and Fireman John Feeney badly bruised by the collision of the Northwestern limited train, on the New York Central, near Port Rochester, N. Y. None of the passengers were hurt, and all continued east on another train. The train collided with a wild engine. The two engines and several cars were badly damaged.

Weather Forecast.

For Western Pennsylvania, Eastern Ohio and West Virginia: Decidedly colder; northwesterly winds; local snows, with a severe cold wave.

EYRAUD GUillotINED.

HE REFUSED ALL RELIGIOUS RITES AND DIED BRAVELY.

A Great Crowd, Such as Paris Alone of All Great Cities of the World Can Invoke, Assembled in the Place de la Roquette —The Prisoner Refused a Glass of Brandy—When Plunged to the Plank the Strangler Sullenly Awaited the Knife to Fall.

PARIS, Feb. 4.—Michael Eyraud was executed by guillotine yesterday in Place de la Roquette. He looked ghastly, could hardly walk and had to be assisted up the steps of the scaffold, but he died bravely. He declined cognac, which was offered him to strengthen his nerves. He refused all religious rites and did not return the kiss of peace given him by the attendant priest. He allowed himself to be bound to the plank without resistance. The knife fell with startling suddenness, and Eyraud was dead before the greater part of the spectators were aware.

A Noisy and Violent Crowd Present. The hour of the execution had been kept a secret until midnight. Even the prisoners, who generally get wind of such things, were ignorant of it. Consequently the crowd was not as large as it might have been, but it was exceedingly loud and violent, growing in numbers and roughness as the fatal hour approached.

After the execution the body was given to his relations, but the mob was not to be cheated, and held a mock funeral in Place de la Roquette. It was a grim and grotesque performance.

Gabrielle Shows No Sorrow. Gabrielle Bompard takes her imprisonment cheerfully. When she asked if there was any chance of her twenty years' sentence of imprisonment being reduced, she was assured that good behavior and industry would serve considerably to shorten her term, besides favorably inclining the authorities to clemency. With this she was well pleased. Gabrielle is not obliged to do prison work, and will not be until her child is born. She will then be transferred to the department of high class needlework. She shows no sorrow for Eyraud's fate; she seemed to experience a feeling of relief when informed of his execution.

THE QUEEN'S JOURNEY. She will Leave Windsor Castle for Florence on March 23.

LONDON, Feb. 4.—The queen, who returns to Windsor castle from Osborne week after next, starts for Florence March 23. The queen's stay in Florence will be about three weeks, after which she will probably go to Darmstadt for a few days on a visit to the grand duke of Hesse, where Emperor William will meet her. The queen will occupy the beautiful villa Palmieri, near Fiesole, which has again been placed at her disposal by Dowager Lady Crawford. The statement that the country is bearing the cost of the alterations in the villa is absolutely untrue. All expense of the queen's journeys and of her foreign sojourn has been paid by her out of her private purse.

FOUR NEGROES KILLED. A Military Officer's Account of the Riot in Alabama.

BIRMINGHAM, ALA., Feb. 4.—Col. Clark, who was in command of the military at Carbon Hill, said, on his return, that every negro in the town had been driven away by the mob. Col. Clark thinks there will be no more trouble until Mayor Anderson is forced to leave, he having incurred the enmity of the lawless element by calling for troops. The sheriff, assisted by the military, arrested some of the white men implicated in the shooting of the negroes. The casualties are four negroes killed outright and eight or nine wounded. The sheriff has advised the governor that he feels able to preserve the peace and the military have been ordered home.

DOWN AN EMBANKMENT. A Southern Train Wrecked and Twenty Passengers Injured.

ATLANTA, GA., Feb. 4.—The passenger train which left Griffin on the Savannah, Griffin and North Alabama railroad, was thrown from the track and the whole train rolled down a twenty-foot embankment. About fifteen passengers were severely wounded, but none killed. The cause of the accident is not yet known.

Conductors, Switchmen, Brakemen Strike. LAFAYETTE, IND., Feb. 4.—The conductors, switchmen and brakemen on this division of the Louisville, New Albany and Chicago road to the number of fifty went out on a strike yesterday because they have not received their pay for the month of December. No freight was moved. The money is promised to-day, which will end the trouble.

An Aged Lover Commits Suicide. NEW BRUNSWICK, ILL., Feb. 4.—Thomas B. Woodside, 55 years old, one of the wealthiest farmers in this section of the state, committed suicide at his home, six miles from town. He was engaged to be married to Miss Stella Fisher, daughter of the state attorney. After a quarrel with her he pulled out a revolver and blew out his brains.

Good News for the People of Scotland. SCOTTDAL, PA., Feb. 4.—The rolling mill here, which has been idle for about six weeks, affecting five or six hundred men, will likely to-morrow be in good news to every resident of the town, as business has been paralyzed since the shut down. The Charlotte furnace and coke works are still idle. The fire in the mine has not yet been extinguished.

Miners Demand an Increase. BELLEVILLE, ILL., Feb. 4.—Between 300 and 500 men employed in the coal mines of this vicinity quit work yesterday, demanding an increase of wages. They have been paid 1 1/2 cents to 1 3/4 cents per bushel heretofore, and now demand a uniform rate of 2 cents.

A REMARKABLE CLAIM.

Dr. Hugo's Heirs Say They Own Part of Capitol Square.

ALTON, ILL., Feb. 4.—United States Claim Agent William H. Platte, of this city, has filed in the land office at Washington a remarkable claim. It is in favor of Edward Hugo, Mrs. W. P. Paul and Mrs. Price, of this city, and O. S. Hugo, of Peoria, who are the legal heirs of the late Dr. Samuel B. Hugo, and in it these parties claim ownership to part of Capitol Square at Washington. The document is in the shape of a land warrant from the general assembly of Maryland, dated April 15, 1788, for lots 2098, 2091, 2703 and 2704. This includes about five acres of land and is described as "lying to the west of Fort Cumberland, Allegany county, Maryland." The claim has been filed and recorded at Washington, and will, if it holds, involve the ownership of part of the ground on which the National capitol stands.

PEPPER'S BOOM.

Alliance Men of Kansas to Take the Lead in the New Party Movement.

TOPEKA, KAN., Feb. 4.—It is said that the alliance leaders are already beginning to talk of Senator-elect Pepper as the alliance or third party candidate for president in 1892. Speaker Pro Tem. Matchett remarked that such a thing would not be at all out of the question. Said he: "Kansas is going to be leader in the alliance movement. The election of a United States senator and five congressmen before the party is a year old is a greater victory than was ever achieved by a new party in any state. It puts Kansas in the front in this great movement, and this state may be called upon to furnish the presidential candidate. If Kansas names the leader in 1892, it is probable that it would be the new United States senator."

THE OHIO LEGISLATURE.

Senator Hugh Thompson Qualified for the Purpose of Resigning, That a Successor May be Elected and a Quorum Secured.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 4.—Senator Hugh Thompson, successor to Senator Robertson, was qualified before a justice of the peace at Sidney for the purpose of resigning, as his illness will make it impossible for him to attend this session. This will enable the Democrats to elect his successor, and thereby secure a quorum in the senate. Editor John O. Ames, of Sidney, will probably be Thompson's successor. The Republican members of the legislature have united in a petition to President Harrison presenting Hon. Charles Foster as the proper person to be selected as secretary of the treasury. His distinguished ability as a financier is well known. The feature of the senate proceedings was eulogies pronounced upon the dead members, Senators Zimmerman and Robertson. A number of visitors were present, and some of the speeches were eloquent. Mr. Vancleave, chairman, reported resolutions giving a Brief Biography of Their Lives and paying a high tribute of respect to their character and citizenship. Senator Kerr then followed in an eloquent speech. Senator Howells read a carefully prepared eulogy, in which he portrayed especially the individuality of Senator Zimmerman. They were room mates and the deceased was one of the most genial of men and an attractive companion. Zimmerman's successor, Senator Hart, spoke of the respect in which Wooster citizens held the deceased as a charitable man and kind father. He was a man of great foresight and clear plans. Mr. Massie was a great admirer of Senator Robertson, who, by his conscientious and upright course, won the confidence of his political opponents. Senators Brown, Cole, Carpenter and Corcoran also pronounced eulogies, and all were ordered printed in the senate journal.

Bills Introduced in the Senate. Mr. Gaumer, authorizing boards of education to grant the use of school houses to farmer and labor organizations. Mr. Ryan, compelling persons to list everything in the way of credits for taxation, allowing them to deduct their liabilities and providing that those failing to comply with the law shall be excluded from obtaining judgment and recovering on any credits that are not listed.

Mr. Adams, authorizing the construction of a fire proof building for a museum and library at the Ohio State university for $840,000.

Bills Passed in the Senate. Mr. Adams, giving justices of the peace, mayors and police judges final jurisdiction in all cases of violations of the fish and game law.

Mr. Vancleave, amending section 1721 of the revised statutes so that where a county treasurer becomes treasurer of city and school funds his bond as city treasurer shall be made a part of the record of the city council and board of education.

An Eight-Hour Bill Passed. Mr. Count's eight-hour labor bill, introduced at the last session, by request of Mr. Brown, of Hancock, came up for consideration. It provides that in all engagements to labor in mechanical, manufacturing or mining business a day's work shall consist of eight hours and no more, except when such labor shall be required by or on account of some unforeseen accident to save the life and property from destruction; and all violating the law shall be subject to a fine. Mr. Hudson wanted its provisions extended to agricultural interests and offered an amendment to this effect. Mr. Heisel opposed the amendment and wanted the farmers considered when they asked for it. The amendment was lost and the bill passed by a vote of 71 to 6.

Business of the House. There was a dispute in the house over the order of business, in which party lines were drawn. As the new calendar was not ready the house took up Monday's unfinished calendar.

Bills Passed in the House. Mr. Woodworth, amending the compulsory education law by extending from 14 to 18 years the age of incompibility.

QUEER PLAYING CARDS.

THEY WERE PAINTED DURING THE WAR OF 1812.

Their Interesting History—A Curious Belle Brought Down from the Old Days When Cards Were Used for Visiting Purposes—Some Interesting Facts.

[Special Correspondence.]

MOBILE, Ala., Jan. 27.—Maj. George B. Clitherall, who died in this city not long ago, had in his possession the most extraordinary pack of cards probably in existence, and they are no doubt the most unique and singular relics ever handed down from mother to son.

During the war of 1812 Maj. Clitherall's mother was stationed with her husband, who was a United States army officer, at Fort Johnston. The officers of a garrison thus situated have often been placed at their wits' end to find amusements, and it can easily be imagined that cards, in those days when luxuries were brought from England and cardboard at the best was a rare article, were much needed. The single pack of cards at the fort was soon used up, and it was not until the ingenuity of Mrs. Clitherall came to the rescue that the deficiency was remedied. She suggested to one of the officers that if he would provide the cardboard she would paint the cards. From supply he had for draughting purposes he cut out fifty-two blank cards, and Mrs. Clitherall set about her unique task. The illustrations which accompany this can give but a faint idea of the singular beauty of these cards.

During Mrs. Clitherall's former residence in England she had learned how to paint beautifully, and she possessed that rare gift of invention which gives to each card its own peculiar design and interest. For instance, the Scottish thistle adorns the nine of diamonds, on the back of which the sentence "The queen of Scots is written, and which is known to this day as the curse of Scotland. On the eight of spades is represented a full rigged ship, the finish of which is perfect. The words "Free Trade and Sailors' Rights" on one of the flags indicate the trend of the times. Mrs. Clitherall obtained from a naval officer the correct information as to the rigging of a ship, and she has reproduced with marvelous fidelity all the nautical details, so that the eye of a sailor in those days would have found no fault with the accuracy of her work.

Maj. Clitherall gave the cards to the children to play with once or twice, and one of the cards is missing from the pack. With this exception it is complete, and certainly deserves a high place among curious relics.

Maj. Clitherall had in his possession another card which is worthy of notice. It is a single playing card, the knave of clubs.

In order to understand and appreciate the value of this simple piece of pasteboard a few words of introduction as to the origin of visiting cards are necessary. The practice of employing playing cards for visiting purposes is a very old one, and its origin is involved in obscurity. It has, however, been authoritatively asserted that the first person in England to use the white back of a playing card—for in those days the cards had plain white backs—in calling upon a friend, and not finding him at home, seized the opportunity to indicate his visit by writing his name on the back of one of a pack of cards lying ready to serve his purpose.

This practice seems to have spread rapidly, and Dr. Charlton, in his "English Notes and Queries," says that in examining a lot of old papers he came across a number of such cards dated 1752-1764, many of which were printed from elegant English copper plates on the backs of old cards. The size of playing cards being found too large for use in handling they were often cut in two, and those of the Earl and Countess of Northumberland were painted on the back of the tray of clubs and the queen of diamonds respectively. But the invitations to card parties printed from copper plates were large enough to cover the whole back of the card.

The Duchess of Grafton's card is printed on the back of the ace of hearts, and the Lady Northumberland's on the back of the ten of spades and ten of hearts, and at the bottom of the latter the phrase "without hoops if agreeable" indicates that the ancient hoopskirt, like its successor, the modern bustle, was productive at times of much discomfort. We can easily picture to ourselves the solemnity of the whist table interrupted by those undulations of feminine vanity. Previous to the introduction of this custom invitations had been sent verbally by servants, and it was practiced to avoid mistakes. Playing cards were used, as the modern card or Bristol board had not at that time been invented.

Thus the custom extended to all branches of society. Hogarth, in plate four of his "Marriage à la Mode," has placed in the right hand corner several cards of this description, and with the trenchant humor so peculiarly his own, has satirized the ignorance of the upper classes by inscribing on one of the cards the following polite inquiry, "Count Basset begs to know how Lady Squander slept last night." The knave of clubs, owned by Maj. Clitherall, was sent to his grandfather as a card of entry to a course of lectures in the university at Edinburgh, when the latter was a medical student there in 1761. On the back of the card, written in ink, now faded by time, is the following:

INSTITUTION OF MEDICINE.
1812
R. W.
JAMES CLITHERALL
No. 25.

There are probably not a few people of the present day who would be willing to use the playing cards again for visiting purposes, provided they could be diverted from the more disastrous ways of gambling.

RAPID TRANSIT TO THE WORLD'S FAIR

Chicago Is Puzzled and All Her Engineering Experts With Her.

[Special Correspondence.]

CHICAGO, Jan. 19.—Rapid transit to the World's fair grounds is now the most difficult problem. All who visited the Centennial of 1876 remember the admirable facilities provided by the Quaker City. The South street, Spruce and Pine, Chestnut and Walnut, Arch, Race and Vine, Fourth and Eighth, Sixteenth and Eighteenth, and Girard avenue street railroad companies all had their western termini in front of the main building; while in addition the belt line depots of the Pennsylvania and the Reading roads were located in Fairmount Park, some distance to the rear of the same structure. At that time it was merely a question of some three miles from the banks of the Delaware river to the desired rendezvous. Chicago, however, is constructed on very different lines.

The crossing of State and Madison streets may be regarded as the very center of the city. Thence for four miles or more north and west Chicago is built up solidly. At the present time, compared with Philadelphia in 1873, the facilities are decidedly meager. The Illinois Central, it is true, parallels the lake front to a distance far beyond the site selected, and running south in the same direction there is, on Wabash avenue and on State street, by all odds the best system of cable cars that the world has yet produced.

At the same time, as is already painfully apparent to the multitude of southern suburban residents, these facilities are scarcely more than equal to the existing demand. There have been times and occasions, and there will probably be again before 1893, when they have been absolutely inadequate to handle the crowds that have flocked to the central portions of the city for some particular event. It is conceded, therefore, that with such a demand for transportation as is certain to be created two years hence, the present methods of reaching the South park would be ludicrously meager, and hence it is that for many weeks past two experts in the matter of transportation—Chief Engineer Gottlieb and E. L. Cortwell, of the Western Indiana and the Lake Shore roads—re-enforced by other railroaders, have been industriously engaged in planning ways and means by which the problem might be solved. It was thought at first that an underground system might be feasible. This plan was voted too expensive, the same with an elevated railroad terminal, but the idea has not yet been definitely abandoned.

The proposition which meets with the greatest favor contemplates a loop, which, while affording accommodations to the people gathering in the center of the city, will at the same time have connection with each and every railroad depot. General Manager Thomas, of the Western Indiana, claims that a train might safely be started from the World's fair grounds every minute, moving 300,000 people in the space of ten hours. Nobody imagines that there will be anything like such a tax on the transportation facilities, but it is well to be prepared, as experience demonstrates that everybody wants to go and come about the same time.

There is objection, however, even to this admirable scheme, on the ground of the immense outlay which it will involve, and so the chief engineer and his assistants are figuring on a surface switch yard centering in an immense depot just outside the grounds, which shall contain not less than eight tracks, to be connected by spurs with the various depots. This scheme is open to the objection, however, that the Illinois Central will not permit the tracks to cross its right of way on the surface, while there would be considerable delay and almost momentary danger from the many trains of other roads which pass over the contemplated route. Nothing definite on the matter has yet been determined.

Concerning the Patriarchs.

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—The first two Patriarchs' balls have already been held with great success, and the members of the Four Hundred are counting the days that must elapse before the next one.

That it will maintain the high standard hitherto observed there is every reason to believe. These entertainments have ranked from their beginning as the most elegant and exclusive festivities of each year. The men who have managed them have been gathered from the most substantial and representative elements of the city, and the women who have adorned them have been the most charming, the most beautiful, amiable and fashionable of their "set." Among the givers and guests of the Patriarchs' balls are found the names, not only of the gayest and smartest fashionable folk, but of the staid, solid and fine old Knickerbocker families whose names are intertwined with the history of New York.

The Patriarchs, taken all in all, are a remarkable handsome set of men. One of the most handsome and distinguished in appearance is Mr. Philip Schuyler, who is the stepfather of that famous beauty of bi-centennial reputation, Miss Marian Langdon. Mr. Bayard Cutting, Mr. Buchanan Winthrop and Mr. George Griswold Haven are all handsome and elegant looking men. Mr. Robert G. Remsen, who is the father of three handsome and popular daughters, is the most patriarchal looking Patriarch of them all. He is of splendid physique, considerably over six feet in height, sturdy and stalwart as a man in his early forties. He has a fine florid complexion, tinted like an autumn rose, a mass of snow white hair fine as floss, and a most abundant beard, which falls snow white and glistening like silver well upon his breast. He is a magnificent specimen of a hale and hearty man, and he is cordial and courteous to a degree. Mr. Pierre Lorillard is another handsome Patriarch, and Mr. Swift Clift, with his aristocratic mien, his elegant figure always faultlessly habited, and his trimmed white mustache, is one of the noticeable features of every ball. Mr. Ward McAllister himself is a man of handsome and distinguished presence and of a wholly delightful personality.

As to the women whose presence has illumined the Patriarchs' ball and made their ball rooms to blossom like the rose, they include all those who have been noted for elegance, good taste, beauty and good form in those circles for whose delectation the Patriarchs' balls were formed. There is one feature, however, that distinguishes these balls from any others that had ever been given in New York. They gave an opportunity to the very young married women to achieve a prominence, which they were not slow to grasp. The belles at every Patriarchs' ball, from the first one down to the last, have been these gay and beautiful young matrons. The girls in general have had rather a sorry time of it, so practically were they eclipsed by the greater charms, the more perfect savor faire, the larger experience, the more splendid audacity, and alas! often the greater beauty of these young matrons.

AN ALARMING SITUATION.

THE CONFERENCE CLOSES WITHOUT A SETTLEMENT.

The Miners' Committee Made Several Proposals to the Operators in the Interest of Peace and They Were All Refused—Miners Ordered to Quit Work Next Saturday and the Coke Drawers Will Follow a Few Days Later—A General Strike Feared by All.

SCOTSDALE, Pa., Feb. 14.—The conference between the coke operators and miners closed yesterday without any settlement of the wage question. The operators demand a reduction of 10 per cent. The miners' committee, which had instructions to demand an advance, made several propositions to the operators in the interest of peace. The operators refused every proposition, and the miners have received orders to quit work next Saturday for an indefinite time. The coke drawers will quit work a few days later. All the operators except W. J. Rainey were present.

The First Proposition of the miners was to agree on a scale between the existing scale and the one demanded some weeks ago, which asked 12 1/2 per cent. advance. To a reduction the miners refused to submit. The second proposition made to the operators by the miners was that work be continued at the present scale of wages until March 1, as by that time a settlement might be reached. The operators refused to agree to. The conference adjourned without setting a date for another session. The general opinion is that the region is on the eve of a general strike.

ROBBED THEIR EMPLOYERS.

Three Brothers Arrested for Stealing $10,000 Worth of Jewelry.

CHICAGO, Feb. 4.—Three brothers named Engmark, the oldest, not yet 23 years of age, have been arrested for systematically robbing two wholesale jewelry houses of thousands of dollars' worth of diamonds, watches, etc. The young men are respectably connected, and their arrest created a sensation among their friends. Their plan was very simple. The two younger brothers, E. J. and E. C. Engmark, were employed in two different wholesale jewelry houses. When filling orders they would slip goods into their pockets. The plunder would be turned to the elder brother, George, who disposed of it to different tradesmen in the city. The customers never suspected the goods were stolen, as Engmark sold them close to the regular figure. The aggregate of their stealings is thought to be at least $10,000.

MAN AND WIFE ASSAULTED.

Two Drunken Toughs Beat Mr. and Mrs. James Fisher with an Ax Handle.

ALTOONA, Pa., Feb. 4.—James Fisher and wife, while going into their house, were set upon by two drunken toughs. The wife escaped into the house, but her husband was knocked down and almost beaten into insensibility with an ax handle one of the men carried. Seeing her husband being maltreated, the wife ran out of the back door and started down the street in search of the police. She was overtaken, however, and while one man held her, the other took the ax handle and repeatedly struck her over the head. Her face and shoulders were badly bruised. She is now in a very precarious condition. The men were arrested and gave their names as James McCauley and John Doll.

MISS JONES STILL ABSENT.

The Festive Housekeeper of Henry Adams Having Fun on Her Lover's Money.

SCOTSDALE, Pa., Feb. 4.—Although officers have been searching the country thoroughly, no clue has been secured as to the whereabouts of Miss Jones, the festive housekeeper of Henry Adams, a German miner, of Everson, who disappeared suddenly some weeks since with $2,000 in notes and money, the property of Adams. She has been traced as far as Pittsburg several times, but there all trail of her has been lost. It is still believed that she will be delivered to the proper authorities. She is understood to be visiting relatives in a small Ohio town, just across the line, where she is having a good time on her lover's money. Officers are on the lookout there.

RECOVERING FROM THE FLOOD.

The New Bridge Across Stonycreek, at Johnstown, Opened for Travel.

JOHNSTOWN, Feb. 4.—The Franklin street bridge across the Stonycreek river was opened for traffic yesterday. It is the first of the four bridges for which the local flood finance committee made an appropriation to the city of Johnstown of $75,000. The second of these bridges will be built across the Conemaugh river leading to the Pennsylvania railroad station. The iron material for it is already here.

TWO KILLED, THREE INJURED.

Disastrous Collision of Freight Trains Near Corry on the N. Y. & P. O.

MEADVILLE, Pa., Feb. 4.—Yesterday, during a severe snow storm, freight train No. 38 eastbound, and an extra 49, westbound freight, collided about three miles west of Corry, on the New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio road. Lew Osgood, a well-known engineer, residing in this city, and his fireman, named Ihmson, were killed. Engineer Britton and two brakemen were injured, but not seriously.

A Severe Blizzard Throughout Iowa.

MASON CITY, Ia., Feb. 4.—A severe blizzard set in here yesterday. Reports received from the east and west on the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul road indicate that it is general throughout the northern part of the state. The snow fell to the depth of twelve inches, and it looks as if a genuine blizzard was upon us.

A Quarantine Station for Cattle.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—Assistant Secy. Spaulding has designated Suspension bridge, N. Y., as a quarantine station for cattle. John T. Claris, of Buffalo, N. Y., has been appointed veterinary inspector for the district of Suspension bridge as well as that of Buffalo creek, N. Y.

AGAINST THE CERNEAUS.

Decision in the Case Involving the Jurisdiction of Warring Masonic Bodies.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 4.—Judge Evans, of the court of common pleas here, passed on a question involved in the great war between the Cerneau and northern jurisdiction franchise of Scottish Rite masonry, which has been in progress in this state for some years. His decision was adverse to the Cerneaus, a demurrer to their amended petition being sustained. Some time ago the same judge passed adversely on the Cerneaus' petition, holding that there were no property rights involved over which the courts could have jurisdiction. Then the Cerneaus amended their petition in an effort to set up such property rights as would bring the case within the former decision, but it appears they were not successful. In the Crawford county courts some time ago, a decision was delivered on the same questions, and there the judicial opinion was contrary to the one handed down here.

Hampden Watch Company Election.

CANTON, O., Feb. 4.—At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Hampden Watch company, at Springfield, Mass., it was decided that John C. Deuber and Charles D. Root retire from active management. The directors chosen were: W. W. Clark, W. A. Moore and H. W. Harter, of Canton, and J. B. Steblins and J. D. Stafford, of Springfield. Mr. Clark was chosen president and will have the management of the works here.

Gen. Gibson's Daughter to Marry.

TIFFIN, O., Feb. 4.—Cards are out announcing the marriage on the evening of the 10th inst. of Jennie M., daughter of Gen. W. H. Gibson, to George E. Bradford, a wealthy young business man of Barnesville. Miss Jennie was born during the latter part of the war, and was known as the daughter of the Forty-ninth regiment, of which her distinguished father was the commander.

Sneak Thieves Steal Diamond Rings.

NEWARK, O., Feb. 4.—Two sneak thieves worked Mr. S. W. Sturtevant, the North Side jeweler, successfully. They engaged the attention of a clerk, and one walked behind the case to look at an article displayed in it. Both walked away and shortly afterward three diamond rings, valued at $350, were found missing.

Becoming Ex-Governor Foster.

FINDLAY, O., Feb. 4.—Ex-Governor Charles Foster is being actively urged by the Republicans of Ohio for the place in the cabinet made vacant by the death of Secretary Windom. To that end his friends throughout the state are holding meetings and organizing for a campaign in his behalf.

They Call it Winter Cholera.

MECHANICSBURG, O., Feb. 4.—A strange disease has made its appearance here and prostrated quite a number, but as yet no fatal cases have resulted. The disease is pronounced winter cholera by the physicians, and appears to be highly contagious.

Took Rough on Rats.

MT. VERNON, O., Feb. 4.—Martha Ellen Shayne, aged 17 years, suicided at the home of her widowed mother by taking rough on rats. She gave no reason.

HARRIS IN DANGER.

Much Interest Being Taken in the Case of Helen Potts.

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—Much interest is still taken here in the case of Helen Potts, the young girl who died on Sunday in the fashionable Constock school, of alleged heart disease and morphine. The pills which her good-looking friend Harris gave her have not yet been examined by a chemist. The coroner seems to be moving with the slowness almost always seen where a rich family is concerned in a case. He says when the pills are examined, if more than one-sixth of a grain of morphine is found therein, young Harris will be arrested. It is said by many that an autopsy should have been made in this case.

Epoch.

The transition from long, lingering and painful sickness to robust health marks an epoch in the life of the individual. Such a remarkable event is treasured in the memory and the agency whereby the good health has been attained is gratefully blessed. Hence it is that so much is heard in praise of Electric Bitters. So many feel they owe their restoration to health, to the use of the Great Alternative and Tonic. If you are troubled with any disease of Kidneys, Liver or Stomach, of long or short standing you will surely find relief by use of Electric Bitters. Sold at 50c, and $1 per bottle, at Baltzly's Drug Store, 3

The senior proprietor of this paper has been subject to frequent colds for some years, which were sure to lay him up if not doctored at once. He finds that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is reliable. It opens the secretions, relieves the lungs and restores the system to a healthy condition. If freely used as soon as the cold is contracted, and before it has become settled in the system, it greatly lessens the attack and often cures in a single day what would otherwise have been a severe cold.—Northwestern Hotel Reporter, Des Moines, Ia. 50 cent bottles for sale by Morganthaler & Heister.

Do you know that a little cough is a dangerous thing? Are you aware that it often fastens on the lungs and far too often runs into Consumption and ends in Death? People suffering from Asthma, Bronchitis, Pneumonia and Consumption will all tell you that

"IT STARTED WITH A COLD."

Can you afford to neglect it? Can you trifle with so serious a matter? Are you aware that

DR. ACKER'S ENGLISH REMEDY for Coughs, Colds and Consumption is beyond question the greatest of all Modern Remedies? It will stop a Cough in one night. It will check a Cold in a day. It will prevent Croup, relieve Asthma, and cure Consumption if taken in time. "You can't afford to be without it." A 25 cent bottle may save you $100 in Doctor's bills—may save your life! Ask your druggist for it, or write to W. H. HOOKER & Co., 46 West Broadway, New York, for book.

TO-DAY'S DOINGS IN THIS TOWN

Personal Notes and Brief Mention of Many Things.

THE WEATHER.—For Ohio—Thursday, warmer, fair.

TO-NIGHT.—At Bucher's, the Sons of Veterans in "The Drummer Boy," at the mayor's court room, board of trade meeting.

Miss Mattie Powell will take charge of the Riverside school.

The Gradatim club will dance to-night in the I. O. O. F. Hall.

Otto Von Kanel and Frank T. Sladden went to Cleveland this morning.

Mr. Lewis Primo returned from a business trip to Cleveland, yesterday.

Charles Warth will be a Democratic candidate for council in the third ward.

S. A. Siddall, representing the Schumann Quartette, is at the Hotel Conrad.

Miss Clara Miller is visiting with Canton and Massillon relatives.—Akron Beacon.

The last dance of the Gradatim club before Lent will be given in I. O. O. F. hall to-night.

Messrs. Rob and Fred Fast and Wade Chance, of Canton, spent Wednesday evening in town.

The Willing Workers will hold their last meeting before Lent at the home of Mrs. John Allen.

Dr. Paul Kirchhofer is announced as a candidate for city treasurer, subject to Democratic rules.

Miss Lorena Clossman, trimmer in H. Falke's millinery store, left to-day for a visit to her home in Zanesville.

Russell & Co. received seventeen car loads of freight from the Ft. Wayne road alone in two days of this week.

Mr. Henry Scholder handsomely entertained a large party of friends at his country home, north of town, last night.

The funeral of the late James Hall, of Youngstown Hill, whose body arrived yesterday from West Virginia, will take place to-day.

Peter Mattimore, for a number of years traveling auditor for the W. & L. E. road, died of consumption at his home in Toledo last Monday.

THE INDEPENDENT is indebted to Mr. S. C. Bowman for copies of the report of the trustees and superintendent of the Fairmount Children's Home.

The funeral of Mrs. James McConnell will take place from her late residence in Jackson township at 10 o'clock to-morrow morning, interment in Massillon cemetery.

Messrs. Sam Priest, Chas. Swier, Anthony Clemens Jr., Melville Doll and Ed. Border, will leave for Washington state Sunday, and intend to make that place their future home.

The regular meeting of the Massillon Equal Rights Association has been postponed to the second Friday in February, and will be held in the new Disciple church, corner of East and Oak streets, entrance on Oak street.

Speaking of the rector of St. Joseph's church, who will lecture next week on "Eloquence in Shakespeare," the Catholic Universe says: "A superb voice, a splendid stage appearance, a wonderfully well studied oratorical finish, Dr. Stafford is an ideal elocutionist."

While attempting to remove some thing from her carriage, tied in front of Dr. T. C. Miller's office, this afternoon, the horse slightly started, and Mrs. Jacob Gretzinger of Navarre was thrown to the ground, the fall resulting in the fracture of the radius of the right arm.

Enterprise Division U. R. K. of P., about eighteen strong, went to Youngstown Hill this afternoon to take charge of the funeral ceremonies over Sir Knight Joseph Hall, who was a member of the order in West Virginia, and whose body was brought home for interment.

The publication of an item yesterday announcing the death of James Eckroate of Navarre was based upon information from a source the reliability of which was never even questioned. It is learned to-day that the young man has been seriously ill, but still lives and is recovering, and the correction is cheerfully made.

Mr. Howells presented the petition of fifteen manufacturing companies of Massillon, reciting that the passage of the Rawlins bill will in their opinion strike a serious blow to every manufacturer, and thus it will drive many manufacturers from the state, and protesting against its passage.—Columbus dispatch, Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The German singing society will give another of its popular concerts at Bucher's, Tuesday evening, Feb. 17. There will be a male and mixed chorus, solos, duettes and quartettes in German and English. "The Bells of Innesfar," or a Christmas Eve in Scotland, with piano-forte and mixed chorus, will be something very attractive.

A delegation of about thirty members of Mannheim Lodge I. O. O. F. of Canton made a fraternal visit to Massillon (German) Lodge last night. After the social features were concluded the visiting brethren and their hosts repaired to the German Pioneer hall, where lunch was served and the company was entertained with choice vocal music by the Canton Mannerchor society.

A private letter received here yesterday conveyed intelligence of the sudden death, at Houston, Ky., recently, of John Dougherty, who resided in Massillon last summer and fall, occupying the Charles Willson property in North Hill street. His occupation was that of getting out ties and other timber for railroads, and he was known to his intimate friends as an active Democratic politician. Unavoidable exposure in his work induced an attack of pneumonia and death ensued within a few days. His family is now living at Norwalk, O.

A Distressed Family.

An independent reporter encountered a distressed family, consisting of a woman and three small children, at Mrs. Green's Empire House, opposite the Ft. Wayne station, this morning. Her story, which bore every evidence of truthfulness, was that her husband was a machinist in Roanoke City, Va., and lost his life while at work in the shops less than a year ago. The small competence left her was soon exhausted, and having no way of earning a livelihood for herself and children at that place she decided to go to Chicago, where she expects to be taken care of by relatives of her husband. She had been assisted this far on her trip by private charity and township and city officials, and relied upon similar help to reach her destination. The township trustees paid for the lodging and breakfast of the ill-clad quartette and aided them on their journey.

Real Estate Valuation.

The Alliance Review says: "George W. Wilhelm, of the state board of equalization, will meet with the Stark county commissioners on next Monday and hear the reason why Stark county's valuation should be reduced. It is admitted at the county seat that the valuation of Alliance, in comparison with Canton and Massillon, is entirely too high and that it ought to be reduced at least 10 per cent. Alliance is of the opinion that such a reduction is too small. The commissioners will make an effort to have the valuation of the county reduced 15 per cent, and should Mr. Wilhelm fail in his efforts before the board to have the same done the commissioners propose to go down to Columbus and make a plea for the county, in a body."

Drummer Boy of Shiloh.

Those enterprising fellows, the Sons of Veterans, will present to-night that best of all military dramas, "The Drummer Boy of Shiloh." Manager A. F. Nail has smoothed all the wrinkles out of the production and an excellent rendition is assured. The Gallion Sun-Review says of Mr. Nail: "It would be almost useless to attempt to inform our people of the genial director, Mr. A. F. Nail, in the role of Uncle Joe. He has become so well and favorably acquainted here, and all will heartily endorse the assertion that he has no equal in that important part. Mrs. Nail took an active part in the play in the way of arranging the tableaux which she did in the most expert manner."

Massillon and the B. & O.

The meeting of the board of trade to-night will be the first since the appointment of committees, and it is therefore desirable that the full membership attend. A number of subjects are to be brought up. Among the topics likely to be discussed is that of getting the B. & O. railroad into the city over the Massillon & Cleveland, which is at present operated only for freight. The new B. & O. line now passes through Clinton, and it is thought that by active efforts, the Pennsylvania Company may relinquish its lease and thus make the entry of the B. & O. possible.

U. R. K. of P. Election.

At the regular meeting of Enterprise Division No. 73 U. R. K. of P. the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: J. W. Cameron, S. K. captain; J. C. F. Putman, S. K. lieutenant; L. S. Buttermore, S. K. herald; W. M. Newsletter, S. K. recorder; C. F. Von Kanel, S. K. treasurer; Fred Shauf, S. K. chaplain; Henry Kramer, G. F. Schworm, J. H. Spuhler, John Shepard, Fred Grosswiller, trustees.

Republican Caucus.

A Republican caucus will be held in the mayor's court room, Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock to nominate a candidate to be voted for at the special election, to choose a successor to L. H. Stobel, councilman from the third ward.

Carrying the War Into Africa.

Jan Kee, the even-tempered celestial who runs an East Main street laundry, has consummated a plot that is worthy of a better cause. Since his return to this city he has had a good trade, but was well aware that he did not get it all. After months of busy thinking he hit upon a plan by which he hopes to bring to his eager hands a larger portion of the loaf. Yesterday he secured a three years and four months' lease of the room adjoining Tunn Kee's establishment in East Tremont street, where he proposes to open a first class "washee shop" under his own personal supervision. His brother is to remain in charge of the old stand.

Board of Trade.

The next regular meeting of the board of trade will be held in the mayor's court room on Thursday evening, Feb. 5th, at half past 7 o'clock. There are now 119 members and there should be a full attendance, as various matters of interest will be presented.

THE SHOCKING INJURIES SUSTAINED BY MCCONNELL.

Later Particulars Concerning the Terrible Rear End Collision of Wednesday Morning, Near Beach City—The Track Cleared Last Night.

Additional, and somewhat more reliable particulars of the rear end collision on the C. L. & W. road near Beach City yesterday morning, have been gathered since the report published in yesterday's INDEPENDENT. John McConnell, who was mentioned as a brakeman, it is learned, was not an employee of the company, although he was at one time a conductor on the road, and was simply "deadbeating" a ride. A direct report to-day is that McConnell cannot recover. He was pinioned in the caboose for half an hour while it was on fire; was badly burned on both feet; his hands were so terribly burned that it was necessary to amputate two fingers, and most serious of all, his person was shockingly mutilated by contact with the flames and heat.

An employee of the company who was down to Canal Dover—where the wounded were taken—last night, reports that the two men who yesterday referred to as tramps are rolling mill employees who were stealing a ride, and that it is probable that the one who was cut on the head and otherwise injured will also die.

James McConnell, a brother to the injured man, and who holds the position of yardmaster for the company at Lorain, went to Canal Dover last night to take care of his brother.

The track was cleared of the wreckage, last evening.

AT THE COUNTY SEAT.

Snatches of News from City and the Court House.

CANTON, Feb. 5.—Marshal Edward Roberts of Louisville, was arrested on a warrant issued by Justice Ringle, on complaint of Morgan Landon, who charges Roberts with exceeding his authority, that Roberts did willfully oppress Landon and arrested him under pretext of acting in his official capacity; That such arrest was made without a warrant or legal authority. The affidavit also charges that the marshal did without legal authority forcibly break into the residence of Landon. The above events are said to have occurred on or about January 31, 1891. It is rumored that Roberts will be prosecuted on sensational charges. Some time ago Roberts was found in a compromising position with the wife of a well known Louisville man, and this arrest grows out of this matter. He pleaded not guilty and gave bond for his appearance.

Upon charge of S. Simon, of this city, P. Landon and D. Bear, of Malvern, were arraigned before Justice Wetach yesterday on the charge of embezzlement. The case was settled. Seventy-five dollars was the amount in dispute.

Marriage licenses have been issued to Robert Taylor and Anna Theobald, Alliance; Fred Wetter and Mary Anderson, Canton; Jacob Webber and Nora Shilling, Canton; Otto Miller and Mary Wittmann, Massillon.

Sheriff Krider left yesterday for Columbus where he will place in the penitentiary Michael Kane, Thomas Page and George Hoeler, who were recently indicted by the grand jury.

Franklin Disler has been appointed executor of the estate of Maria Disler, Plain.

Jacob Walker has been appointed guardian of the minor heirs of Grace Sell, Osnaburg.

Sheriff Krider returned from Fort Wayne Wednesday evening with Eugene Mabley, over whose head hangs an indictment for cutting with intent to kill. The case is two years old. Mabley was indicted, and placed under bond, but he left for France. He returned some time ago and located in Ft. Wayne. Sheriff Krider learned of his whereabouts and had him placed under arrest. It is said that Mabley is weak minded.

Secretary Windom's Successor.

Special Dispatch to The Independent. WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—The impression steadily grows that the President has decided on a Western man for Mr. Windom's place. He will insist on a man of stalwart Republicanism, and sound on the money question. It is believed that all consideration of New York men has been dropped. Charles Foster, of Ohio, is looked upon as a most prominent man. Congressman McKinley is probably out of the race and by his own motion, too.

It is a good season for sitting down, and sitting down hard on official extravagance.

Governor Campbell need not worry about the tariff. He and his legislature have been making campaign issues.

At the board of trade meeting tonight resolutions are likely to be introduced deprecating the attacks upon the county treasury being made, and now proposed, in the city Canton.

An enemy is willing to accept the fruits of treason, but will not admire a traitor. The senators who helped to kill the Federal elections bill will always be detested for having been false to a trust.

THE INDEPENDENT has procured for publication Saturday, a carefully prepared synopsis of the senate speeches on the coinage bill, in which all the points are brought out. There has been a great demand, recently, for accurate information on both sides of this great public question, and this article will supply that need.

If the possible advancement of the city of Massillon one step higher in legal classification is to be followed by the election of school boards by wards, as councilmen are now chosen, the result would not be worth having. Better, far better, continue as at present, electing members of the board of education on a common ticket, and on a non-partisan basis. The board of education has always had public confidence, and has commanded the service of the highest grade of citizenship, and there cannot very well be an improvement in the manner of conducting the election.

The proposed memorial building scheme at Canton is being pushed in such a way that THE INDEPENDENT hopes the various county newspapers will at once open an educational campaign, and settle once for all the attempt to secure a large sum of money from the county, for the purpose of making a local improvement. No one for a moment wishes to question the entire propriety of erecting such a memorial, providing the citizens of Canton wish to do it, but in other parts of the county a reverent respect for the dead has already been shown by the building of existing monuments and halls, and it is unjust and unnecessary to impose a new tax, to further an enterprise for which there is no real need, and which could be of very limited or no service to the county at large. The way to keep down taxation is to frown upon extravagance. The county is about to issue bonds for $25,000 to cover a deficiency, and the ornamental projects had better be laid aside.

Editor Smith, of the Punxatawney Spirit, is one of the new members of the Pennsylvania legislature, and he writes home to say that the only reason why new members are tolerated at the capital is because there is a law against murder. Perhaps the gentleman has discovered that he weighs less at Harrisburg than in Punxatawney.—New York World.

THE HORTICULTURISTS.

TIMELY DISCUSSIONS ON TIMELY SUBJECTS.

Mr. McGregor Reads an Able Paper to the Society—Mr. Clark Brackets the Subject of a County Memorial Building—A Committee Appointed.

General Greely's first cold wave arrived precisely on schedule time, and in consequence thereof, not only were Stark county noses nipped but likewise the otherwise favorable prospects for a splendid indoor Horticultural Society meeting at the residence of John McGregor, No. 139 North Walnut street, Canton. But for a' that, as Bobbie Burns might say, there was a right fair attendance, and Mr. A. McGregor and family extended a kind Scotch welcome, in which the cakes were not lacking if the ale was. There was no morning session, except around the dinner tables, but promptly after President Roth dropped his gavel.

Owing to the absence of the secretary and the retiring treasurer the annual reports of those officials, due in January, could not be heard. Mr. McGregor moved and it was agreed to, that those officials be given another month in which to report, and that they be requested to either be present at the next meeting or send the necessary documents through some member.

Mr. Nash, appointed to communicate with Major McKinley and secure information as to the sugar bounty, reported by letter that he had as yet not received the desired information. He was given one month more.

Mr. W. Clark, having been requested by the chairman of the Canton citizens' committee to lay the matter of a memorial building before the society, detailed the proposed enterprise.

There were, Mr. Clark said, numbers of such structures in Ohio, and the one proposed proposed to be erected in Canton would not only be a proud memorial but would provide meeting places for county societies now existing and which might exist in the future. It was proposed, in the rough, that individuals should subscribe $100,000; the city of Canton $25,000, and the county of Stark $25,000. Under the arrangement outlined, each township would have a sort of proprietary interest in the hall. Mr. Clark spoke at considerable length, and threw out his suggestions "as matter for thought."

Mr. McGregor moved, and it was agreed to, that a committee be appointed to investigate the question and report upon all its bearings at the next meeting. The appointment of the committee was deferred until later, the chair naming A. McGregor, Lewis Essig, C. F. Laiblin, R. Erwin, Watson Wise and S. H. Rockhill. The committee of Cantonians was selected, as members farther distant might not be able to attend the joint meeting to be held in Canton next week.

THE QUERY DRAWER.

1. What new facts in pear culture have been developed during the past season? Mr. Laiblin sorrowfully said that all his pear trees had died, but no information was forthcoming.

2. What can be said of spraying plum trees as a preventative of injury by curculio? What varieties of plums can be recommended as best for general use?

Mr. Essig, as his experience, reported that by spraying with Paris green he had killed a plum tree, while the curculios continued their pernicious existence. He advised jarring. He thought the Bradshaw best adapted for this locality, and advised thinning the crop when the trees were over weighted. Mr. Borst thought well of allowing hogs to root about an orchard. Mr. Wise believed in judicious spraying.

3. Where did the Baldwin apple originate, and by whom?

The following answer was given by Mr. Berlin: "A correspondent of The Massachusetts Ploughman says this is a wilding found near Wilmington, Mass., by Samuel Thompson, of Woburn. Grants were taken to Abijah Thompson, whose neighbor, Colonel Baldwin, subsequently distributed them over the country."

MR. A. MCGREGOR'S ESSAY.

The way resolute humanity is to meet difficulties and manfully struggle to overcome them is never despair. The darkest day, live till to-morrow, will have passed away. It is a fine rule to not get the blues and take a gloomy view of things. Of course one cannot help realizing the present status and considering indications, and we must judge the future by the past and the present and guide our feet by the lamp of experience as far as may be.

Liberty enlightens the world is a proverb much used, but without enlightenment there is no liberty. "He is a free-man whom the truth makes free and all are slaves, &c." The heaviest tax we pay is ignorance. It is claimed the most of our sickness, even, is through ignorance, possibly of the laws of health, and a bad habit is a costly liability. Industry rusts not, and the used key is always bright.

Self control is the great lack in the formation of character, and without character, stamina in conduct, founded upon self control, no individual counts for much.

What maintains one vice would bring up two children. And pride that dines on vanity sups on contempt. "Pride breakfasted with Plenty, dined with Poverty and supped with Infamy," as poor Richard said.

We see occasionally statements that young men now have not the opportunities that fathers had, for the reason that land now is not easy to be had. All this whine is made in face of the fact that farms are being abandoned even in populous New England. In Maine, Vermont, and other New England States are abandoned farms, and they can be bought for a trifle.

All this would indicate that our opportunities to-day are greater than they were fifty and one hundred years ago. Look at railroad and consider the thousands and tens of thousands employed therein, and in other lines of occupation depending on and contributing thereto. The electric telegraph, telephone, electric lighting and power, as well as many other new industries, have also opened up new fields that give employment and livelihood to millions of human beings.

Were these benefits more generally equalized, instead of being monopolized through legerdemain in various ways, legislation and otherwise, undoubtedly it would be better. But the schoolmaster is abroad and the pupils are learning, judging by Alliances, Granges, labor unions, &c. Communication is rapid, too, these days, owing to improved facilities.

ities. "Better fifty years of Europe than a cycle of Cathay," says Tennyson. Better a few years of this land than millions in central Africa.

If people in this country could vote on measures instead of men, results would often times be different and no doubt better. There would not be the same corruption in our elections and legislation, and people would be more likely to investigate questions pertaining to public policy.

Farm areas may be made vastly more productive by more skillful and thorough cultivation. Many a laborer in town, it seems to me, might be much better situated on even a small portion of mother earth, livelihood more secure, and that is all any of us get in this life, any way.

A pair of cows might draw his plow and do other work, if he could not afford horses, and with pigs, chickens, turkeys, geese, and possibly a few sheep, with some fruit and a good garden, there surely would be more certainty and security as to a living than many good people in our towns find now.

These are only a few pencillings, done in a hurry last evening, without aiming at connection or completion, as is an essay on some special subject.

The immigration question has become an important one, and is likely to continue, judging by the returns for last year. The following few figures are taken from a paper: "It is significant that the total of immigration last year was 491,026, against 426,712 in 1889, but the immigrants from those countries from which in former times we drew most largely now show a marked falling off. The immigration from Ireland is reduced 7,500; from Scotland, 1,600; from England and Wales, 70,000; Germany, Denmark and France each show a slight increase. But the greatest increase is from Italy, from which country the immigration has grown from 29,600 in 1889, to 62,492 in 1890; and from Bohemia, Hungary, Austria, Poland and Russia, an increase of 5,000 to 15,000 in each nationality."

This immigration question is becoming more and more a problem as the numbers increase and elements less homogeneous and less desirable become the leading features. All this has no doubt much to do in causing the crowded condition of the departments of ordinary labor. It is a well-known fact however that in skilled labor our markets are not over-stocked, showing that there is room yet in this direction—that is, in the line of education. In fact, the great need of to-day is a new education that shall have its foundation in industry, its development in useful employments, and its inspiration in solid worth and virtuous conduct.

Character is an essential, and by proper training, the chief element of which is occupation, character is shaped. "Train up a child in the way he should go and when he is old he will not depart from it." The converse is equally true, for train up wrong and the child so continues. The loose, negligent, let-run way is too common. We are all too apt to be careless in these important matters. I trust it does no harm to call attention to this sort of garden work, and here I will leave the subject for your consideration.

Mr. Erwin spoke warmly in favor of Mr. McGregor's able effort, and several others also. Mr. Rockhill moralized on the evil effects of too often advising the boys that there was plenty of room at the top, when in fact a good many would otherwise be better content to energetically labor where they were best adapted—around the base of the ladder.

The subject of the memorial hall was again taken up and thoroughly discussed. Mr. Laiblin favored the plan personally, but wanted to be sure that the people of the county, outside of Canton, favored it. Mr. Erwin felt anxious as to whether it would be managed, if built, upon a broad basis, giving to every creed and every party an equal advantage in its use. Mr. Borst, Mr. Wise, Mr. McGregor, Mr. Bayliss, Mr. Essig and others advanced various ideas. The acting secretary said that inasmuch as Alliance and Massillon already had soldiers' monuments the citizens of those localities might object to being taxed for a local monument at Canton. The question was dropped until the committee should report upon the details of the enterprise.

Mr. Berlin spoke in a discouraged tone of the prospects of the next meeting, announced to be held at Louisville. He was not, however, permitted to get the location changed. The society decided that the best thing to be sure that the people of the county, outside of Canton, favored it. Appointments: Essayist, William Shaffer, of Louisville; alternate, Miss Mabel Teeters, of Alliance.

Renewals: J. E. Dougherty, Canton; C. F. Laiblin, Canton; S. J. Miller, 112 E. Fourth street, Canton.

After adjournment Mrs. Dr. House entertained the society with several piano selections.

ECHOES FROM THE SHOPS.

Note and Comment on Men and Doings at Russell Co.'s.

Mr. Jacob Spubler is always pleasant when we meet him.

Mr. Frank Shallenberger has returned from Pittsburgh where he attended the funeral of his aunt.

The rate of sickness here is always higher at this season of the year, and we are glad to know that it is not above the average this year.

Through the courtesy of Mr. J. W. Holcomb, Mr. Ira Dean is now the owner and manager of a unique steam tricycle, though it is believed he is not very ambitious to become an expert in handling it.

Mr. Wm. Rohr has been suffering for some time from sore feet. He had them frozen last winter while out in the garden building fires around his onion beds to keep them from freezing. Many of the boys remember William's long face when he brought the news to the shop that his feet had been of no avail and his onions were no more.

In these days of strikes and rumors of strikes it is good to know that we do not live in the troubled and starving centers of the Old World, and in scanning this country from the large cities of the East and some of the great railroad centers of the West, down to the miserable coke regions of Pennsylvania, it is still better to know that we are in peaceable, solid old Massillon.

Justice to W. H. Crooks demands that we correct the statement we made that the officer and court must have been disgusted with the case in which the young girl who was employed in his house was charged with stealing a silk dress. Many of the friends of this girl, believing as they do, that the dress was given to her, are worked up over the fact, that after Thomas Allen Pinkerton Hagan had seen the girl, and was so far convinced of her innocence as to bring the dress back without the girl, he should go back to Canal Fulton in a couple of days and take ten dollars as a compromise from her crippled brother, who probably has to work fifteen or twenty days for every ten dollars he gets. The boy who wishes to avoid the scandal is not to blame. But those who jingle any of the pennies gathered together by this one-legged boy, must feel some qualms of conscience, if they have not lost all feeling; did they ever have any of that ingredient in their make up. These friends are also indignant that the mayor, after allowing the case to be compromised, permitted it to be reopened by sending the detective on a third trip on the same charge. Why was this third trip made?

READY TO RESPOND.

Governor Campbell on Governor Campbell.

The Cleveland Plain Dealer of to-day contains an interesting chat with Governor Campbell:

"If the Democratic party calls you to the head of their ticket again will you accept?"

"I will. If the party wants me to run a second time and thereby endorse my administration I shall answer the call."

"Do you think that Major McKinley will receive the Republican nomination for governor?"

"It seems to be the general impression that he will. It is pretty hard to say, however, what will develop before their convention. Major McKinley's nomination means the unconditional commitment of his party to the principles of protection. It would seem as though the Republicans would see the folly of this idol by this time. They are, however, in a peculiar position, they hate to back down and many of them see danger in renewing their fidelity to the principles upon which they largely, at least, owe their recent defeat. We do not hear of any formidable opponent of Mr. McKinley as yet."

About Valentines.

The valentine is with us again. These symbolic offerings at the shrine of love continue to be bought and sent, and each year brings new and attractive ideas, many of which are directly novel and original, while in the higher and more artistic efforts of the manufacturers there is a marked tendency toward more dainty embellishments and correct taste in expression.

The line displayed this season by the Independent Company is the cream of the market. The efforts are more artistic, the designs more beautiful, the variety larger, and the prices cheaper than ever before.

"It leads them all," is the general reply of druggists when asked about the merit or sales of Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Sugar way down at Albright & Co.'s.

SCROFULA

Is that impurity of the blood which produces unsightly lumps or swellings in the neck; which causes running sores on the arms, legs, or feet; which develops ulcers in the eyes, ears, or nose, often causing blindness or deafness; which is the origin of pimples, cancerous growths, or "humors," which, fastening upon the lungs, causes consumption and death. It is the most ancient of all diseases, and very few persons are entirely free from it.

How Can It Be CURED

By taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, by the remarkable cures it has accomplished, has proven itself to be a potent and peculiar medicine for this disease. If you suffer from scrofula, try Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"Every spring my wife and children have been troubled with scrofula, my little boy, three years old, being a terrible sufferer. Last spring he was one mass of sores from head to feet. We took Hood's Sarsaparilla, and all have been cured of the scrofula. My little boy is entirely free from sores, and all four of my children look bright and healthy."

NEW MINE HORROR

EIGHTEEN PERSONS MEET A WATERY GRAVE.

A Mighty Rush of Water Floods a Mine at Jeanesville.

THE SCENES AT THE MOUTH OF THE SLOPE HEARTRENDING.

A Large Force of Men at Work Pumping Out the Water.

Two Miners Drilled a Hole Through a Pillar, Letting in the Water Which Had Been Used in Filling in the Worked Out Mine Adjoining Slope No. 1 of Hayden & Co.—The News of the Disaster Caused Great Excitement—No Definite Idea of the Volume of Water Can Be Obtained—Few of the Miners Knew of the Great Body of Water in the Old Slope.

WHITE HAVEN, PA., Feb. 5.—Yesterday while Charles Boyle and Patrick Coll, of Levison, were engaged in drilling a hole in their chamber in No. 10 slope of J. C. Hayden & Co.'s mine, at Jeanesville, they broke into the old No. 8 slope, which had been idle for five years, and which had been flooded to the mouth with water. William Brislin, a driver, was close by and he cried out: "Boys, for God's sake, run for your lives or you will be drowned." In a moment thereafter the water came, and Brislin barely escaped with his life. Besides him, six others escaped. The water rose rapidly, but before any attempt could be made to rescue any of the other workmen the slope, which is 624 feet deep, was flooded to the mouth and they were caught and drowned.

List of Those Drowned.

Lawrence Reed, married, has eight children.
Edward Gillisher, married, two children.
James Griffiths, married, one child.
James Ward, married, eight children.
Harry Bull, married, seven children.
Joseph Malskovich, married, four children.

The News of the Disaster caused great excitement, and the mouth of the slope was soon thronged with the anxious families and relatives of the workmen and others. The scenes were heartrending. Wives implored piteously of the miners standing by, who knew only too well the fatal result, to save their husbands from the terrors of a watery grave. Little children crying for their papas and relatives praying for the safety of their loved ones. The sorrowing wives, relatives and friends were finally convinced that there was no hope of rescuing any of the men and were away from the scene of this new mine horror by sympathetic hands to their homes. A large force of men were immediately put at work pumping out the water. How long it will take is a question, since no definite idea of the volume of water can be ascertained. Some of the miners say it will take four weeks before the bodies can be reached, but others incline to the opinion that it will take much longer.

Miners Ignorant of Their Danger.

Many causes are advanced as to the cause of the great disaster. Some charge it to neglect to notify the workmen of the dangerous proximity of the water, as only a few of the old miners knew of the presence of the great body of water in the old slope. Even those that knew of it had no idea that the workings were driven as near to the water as they were. The civil engineer in charge of the Jeanesville mines was a man from Pottsville, named La Fevre Whomsdorf.

ANOTHER MINE DISASTER.

Blasting Causes a Cave-In and Three Miners Lose Their Lives.

WILKESBARRE, PA., Feb. 5.—A cave-in occurred at Grand tunnel, opposite Nanticoke, yesterday afternoon. In the abandoned part of No. 3 colliery, of the Susquehanna Coal Company, which was closed, was a great body of water. In the adjoining chamber a number of miners were at work blasting. An unusually heavy charge was fired and so thinned the wall that the heavy volume of water broke its way through. Some of the miners were given warning, and ran for their lives ahead of the rushing flood. Three men, John Riner, Mike Shelank and William Cragle, did not hear the warning in time and were closed in their chambers. The men are all married and leave large families.

BLINDED BY VITRIOL.

A South Side Plumber Seriously Burned While at Work.

PITTSBURG, Feb. 5.—A South Side plumber may be blinded for life. Mr. A. Letzkus was seriously burned by vitriol yesterday. He was working in his shop with a boy. They were seated on a bench, while above them, on a high shelf, was a bottle of vitriol. The boy was holding a piece of iron and accidentally struck the bottle. It fell on Mr. Letzkus' head and broke, the vitriol flowing over his face. The unfortunate man was blinded and he fainted with the pain. His hair and eyebrows were burned off, and his cheeks are red. It is thought that his eyes have also been burned out.

The First Recognition of Gov. Boyd.

LINCOLN, NEB., Feb. 5.—The joint committee of the state legislature, appointed to wait on ex-Governor Thayer, reported yesterday that he was ready to deliver his message, and it was agreed to receive it this afternoon. In the house, after a hot fight lasting five hours, a resolution was passed by a small majority asking Governor Boyd to also deliver his message. This will result in two messages being delivered and is the first recognition by the house of Boyd as governor.

GHASTLY INDIAN RELIC.

A Youngtown Young Lady Receives a Part of the "Messiah's" Scalp.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Feb. 5.—Miss Gertrude Kemp, residing here, desirous of securing a relic of the late Indian war, recently wrote to her cousin, Willis Kemp, of Troop E, Seventh regiment, and yesterday received a part of the scalp taken from Laughing Joseph, the original Indian Messiah, killed in the battle of Wounded Knee. The hair is very long and black, and Miss Kemp was offered a large sum for it by a relic hunter.

Killed on His Way from a Revival.

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., Feb. 5.—Enoch Blool, a well-known butcher of East End, near here, was struck by an east-bound C. & P. freight while on his way home from the revival meeting in this city. His head was badly crushed. The train crew took him to his home, where he died yesterday. He was 35 years of age and leaves a widow and two children in poor circumstances.

Prominent Pomeroy Man Insane.

POMEROY, O., Feb. 5.—Capt. Thornton Mallory, an old soldier who served two terms as treasurer and two terms as sheriff of Meigs county, and is a partner of Representative McElroy in the woolen mill at Racine, became violently insane over religious matters, and was sent to the Athens asylum.

Attempted to Whip a Horse.

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., Feb. 5.—Mr. Andy Rattery, the well-known liveryman of this city, was kicked by one of his horses. He will likely die. He attempted to whip the animal for some cause when it kicked him, both feet striking him on the forehead.

Come to Life After Being Dead.

SPRINGFIELD, O., Feb. 5.—Mrs. George Tyree came to life after being pronounced dead. She insisted that she was born again and wanted to be baptized. Her wishes were carried out, and she was baptized in a metallic casket.

Freight Depot Burned.

FINDLAY, O., Feb. 5.—The large freight depot of the Lake Erie and Western railway, with all its contents, was destroyed by fire yesterday. The fire caught in the office, it is supposed from a gas jet.

CLOSE ON SATURDAY.

Extensive Improvements Will Be Made at the Edgar Thomson.

BRADDOCK, Feb. 5.—It is stated that the Edgar Thomson steel works will close down next Saturday, to remain closed until some large contemplated repairs and extensions are made to the works. During the shut-down a new cupola house, containing four converting cupolas, will be finished, which were begun several months ago. The old converting mill, containing four ten-ton converters, will be torn down and an entirely new and larger one will be built on the present site, having a capacity of four fifteen-ton converters, an increased capacity of 50 per cent. A portion of this work was begun some weeks ago, and only the placing of machinery, castings, etc., which could not be done while the mill was in operation, yet remains to be done.

A CONSUMPTIVES' HOSPITAL.

One Will Be Established at Denver and the Lymph Used.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—Dr. A. Joseph Meier, of Denver, Colo., has just returned from Berlin, where he has been studying Dr. Koch's treatment for pulmonary diseases. He was sent abroad by the governor and citizens of Colorado to prosecute his investigations with a view of establishing a hospital for consumptives at Denver, Colo., because of the climate. The doctor was guaranteed the sum of $50,000 for the establishment of a hospital before he went to Berlin last November. He brought back with him a generous quantity of the celebrated lymph, and was accompanied by Dr. Joseph Herrens, who has long been an assistant of Dr. Koch, and half a dozen experienced nurses.

Opening of the Cherokee Outlet.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—The house committee on territories yesterday ordered a favorable report on a substitute for the bill introduced in the house by Mr. Mansur, providing for opening the Cherokee outlet to settlement under the homestead laws at $1.25 per acre, and provides punishment for illegal entry. It will carry an appropriation of $7,000,000 or $8,000,000.

Presidents of the Alliance in Session.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—The presidents of the state organizations of the National Farmers' alliance met here yesterday, the purpose being to formulate certain measures to be presented to congress and to map out some feasible plan for disseminating the literature of the council for educational purposes. Representatives from Virginia, Maryland, South Carolina, North Carolina, Tennessee, Mississippi, Kansas and Pennsylvania were present. The only business transacted was the appointment of a committee on silver legislation.

Removed the Injunction of Secrecy.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—The senate, in secret session, yesterday removed the injunction of secrecy from the treaty entered into at Brussels last July, between the United States and a number of other powers, for the suppression of the African slave trade. The treaty has not yet been ratified by the senate and Secretary Blaine in his letter transmitting it to the president says that as the act provides for the deposit of ratifications at Brussels by July 2, next, it is very desirable that the senate should take action during its present session.

Privy Councillor Dunajewski Resigns.

VIENNA, Feb. 5.—Emperor Franz Joseph has accepted the resignation of Privy Councillor Dr. J. Dunajewski, the Austrian minister of finance. Dr. Dunajewski, who was appointed on June 26, 1880, resigns because of ill health. The emperor has bestowed upon the retiring minister the cross of the order of St. Stephen. He also becomes a life member of the upper house of the Reichstag. He will be succeeded as minister of finance by Herr Sternbach, at present chief of the ministry of justice.

Nine Men Injured with Dynamite.

PARIS, Feb. 5.—At Montpellion nine artillerymen, engaged in charging a mine with dynamite, were dreadfully injured by the dynamite exploding.

OVER THE BRIDGE.

A SLEEPING CAR DROPS SIXTY FEET TO THE GROUND.

A Broken Axle in the Forward Truck Causes it to Leave the Track on a Bridge Near Scribner—Eleven Passengers in the Sleeper, Nearly All of Whom Were More or Less Injured and Four Seriously—Fortunately Some Were in the Dining Car.

MONTREAL, Feb. 5.—The sleeping car on the west-bound express, on the Canadian Pacific, was thrown from the track by a broken axle in the forward truck, about 100 feet east of the trestle bridge near Scribner, on the Lake Superior section of the road. The car ran half way across the bridge, tearing up the ties, and was then precipitated over the side and fell fifty or sixty feet to the ground. There were eleven passengers in the sleeping car, nearly all of whom were more or less injured, but only four seriously. Some of the sleeping car passengers were fortunately in the dining car at the time and escaped injury. Miss Mary Redmond and the sleeping car porter entirely escaped injury.

The Injured Persons.

Mr. Marston, of Winnipeg, seriously injured about the body.
T. S. Hugheson, leg broken.
Dr. McLean, injured about the body and head cut.
G. W. Erb, cut about the head.
F. B. McNamara, cut about the head.
Mrs. Dr. Torrence, injured about the right shoulder and back.
E. J. Redmond, cut about the head and right leg injured.

A SPY'S SUICIDE.

She Had Five Hu-bands and Was Divorced From Four of Them.

CHICAGO, Feb. 5.—Mrs. McKnight, who committed suicide here, was quite a celebrity in war times. She had been married five times, first at the age of 18. She followed her husband into the army. He was captured while on a secret mission and confined in a confederate prison. She thereupon became a spy and spent much time in the confederate lines. Once she gained admission to his cell and changed clothes with him to aid his escape. He was captured, however, and she was sentenced to be shot. She escaped before the time set for her execution, but meantime her husband died. After the war the woman married four husbands, three of whom were notorious criminals. She was divorced from all four.

SENSATIONAL ACCIDENT.

Fire Causes Great Consternation Among Four Hundred Banqueters.

LONDON, Feb. 5.—A sensational accident is reported from Cardiff, Wales. The Marquis of Bute, who is mayor of Cardiff, and who is also one of the richest property owners of that city and vicinity, gave a grand banquet to celebrate the opening of the steel works just founded there. An electric lamp burst during the banquet and ignited the costly decorations. Great consternation followed, as the fire could not be prevented from spreading. The 400 guests succeeded in making their escape, his lordship behaving with much coolness and courage. The fire was subdued after the hall had been partly destroyed and the banquet, of course, was abandoned.

LIVES IN AN INCUBATOR.

A Motherless 2-Weeks-Old Babe Has a Hard Struggle for Existence.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—A baby two weeks of age is making a determined effort to live under very difficult circumstances at the Babies' hospital. Sixty-seventh street and Lexington avenue. The mother of the child died at its birth, and a friend tried to nourish it, but was unsuccessful. The infant weighed only three pounds, and it was decided that to save its life it would have to be placed in an incubator. This has been done, and the child rests on a small bed of cotton in it. The chances for its living are about even.

SHOT BY A PITTSBURGER.

John Cummings Gets Into Trouble in Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 5.—John Cummings, 24 years of age, of Pittsburgh, was arraigned at the Sixth district police court yesterday on the charge of shooting John Cavanaugh, of 229 Greenwich street. The shooting occurred at Green's hotel and the ball which was fired by Cummings was intended for Nutt Hogan, a notorious gambler, but hit Cavanaugh. Cummings was committed.

An Alliance Man Short in His Accounts.

SPARTANBURG, S.C., Feb. 5.—W. McZimmerman, the storekeeper and agent of the Farmers' alliance supply store, is said to be short in his accounts from $15,000 to $30,000. One of McZimmerman's plans of operation was to open a store some distance from the regular alliance store and transfer goods to this establishment, where he sold the goods at reduced rates. An investigation of the affairs of the store reveal the rankest sort of management, and startling developments are expected within the next two days.

Run Down and Killed by a Grip Car.

KANSAS CITY, MO., Feb. 5.—Elmer Clark, superintendent of the Kansas City Cable Railroad company, was run down and killed by a grip car at the Woodward avenue power house yesterday. He was standing in front of a grip car, which started to move slowly. Some one attempted to set the brake, but by mistake took hold of the grip lever and tightened the grip on the cable. The car bounded forward and struck Clark on the head, instantly killing him.

City Council Booming a Town.

KANSAS CITY, MO., Feb. 5.—The council of Kansas City, Kan., has taken steps toward securing the location of the general offices of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas railway, for Kansas City, Kan. Its offices are at Sedalia, Mo., with branch offices at Kansas City, Mo. A recent order of the United States court, in the hands of which the road now is, compels the removal of the general offices to Kansas.

Thawing Out Dynamite.

NORRISTOWN, PA., Feb. 5.—While thawing a large quantity of dynamite yesterday afternoon on Trenton cut, off Branch, John Devaney, aged 16 years, and a Hungarian, were fatally injured by the explosion which followed.

THE OHIO LEGISLATURE.

Senator Cole's Bill for the Inspection of Private Banks Passed—The House Defeated Mr. Williams' Bill.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 5.—The senate passed Senator Cole's bill providing for the inspection of private banks. It provides for appointment by the governor of a state bank examiner at a salary of $2,000 per year, whose duty it shall be to examine at least once a year all private banking institutions in the state, except loan and building associations. To maintain and pay the officer banks are to pay an annual fee according to the amount of capital stock. Banks with a capital of $25,000 are to pay $20; those with a capital of from $25,000 to $50,000, $25, and those with greater capital, $40. The first examiner will serve from the date of his appointment to the third Monday in February, 1892. The term after that will be for two years. The senate also passed Mr. Alexander's bill giving a probate judge power to fine and imprison all owners of dogs who refuse to pay taxes on the dogs.

Bills Introduced in the Senate.

Senator Socrant has introduced a bill amending the statutes so as to reduce the penalties in the following rates: From 5 per cent. to 2, from 10 per cent. to 4, from 15 per cent. to 5, and from 25 per cent. to 8. One provision of the bill is that if the first-named penalty is paid at the treasurer's office only 2 per cent. shall be charged, but if it is collected by a collector the full 5 per cent. shall be charged. Senator Socrant introduced a bill to compel telephone companies to make an annual report to the state commissioner of railroads and telegraphs. The bill gives this official power over telephone companies and puts them under similar restrictions. Senator Hart introduced a peculiar bill by the request of the state board of health. It is to regulate the practice of hypnotism in Ohio. The bill prohibits the practice of this subtle art upon anyone unless a reputable third party is present, and unless the consent of the victim is given. It makes the offender liable to punishment for misdemeanor.

House Proceedings.

The house defeated Mr. Williams' bill, providing for biennial sessions of the general assembly. The discussion on the merits of the measure occupied the whole forenoon, and was quite spirited. Among those who favored the bill were Messrs. McKelvey, Laylin and Griffin. The most prominent in opposition to the measure were Messrs. Gever, Gear, Sanford, Critchfield and Taylor, of Champaign. A step in educational advancement was taken by the state when the lower branch of the general assembly passed Mr. Hysell's bill providing for a fixed income for the State university.

CONDENSED OHIO NEWS.

Scarlet fever has broken out at Mason City, W. Va., opposite Pomeroy, with such severity as to necessitate the closing of the public schools.

A watch and some rings stolen from Leighton's jewelry store in Blanchester, four years ago, were found in the ground by some workmen in a grove near Midland City, a village near Blanchester.

THEY YELLED AND HISSED.

Trouble with Military Companies at the University of Illinois.

CHAMPAIGN, ILL., Feb. 5.—There was an exciting episode here at the University of Illinois. When the bugle call was given for the several military companies to fall in and march to the chapel, to attend religious exercises, the companies did not come together with the usual precision, but fell in to suit themselves, and there was not a commanding officer among them. In a short time the halls resounded with yells, hisses and stamping of feet, and the members of the faculty were unable to restrain the confusion. Inside the chapel the same conduct prevailed until Regent Peabody gave the salute and all were seated, when the service proceeded without interruption. The cause of the trouble was that a young man named Miller, a captain, was removed from that office because his grade in study was not up to the requirements. His fellow-officers, about twenty in number, protested against his removal and refused to take their companies to chapel. A petition for Miller's reinstatement was rejected by the faculty, and the insubordinate officers are having a hearing. Unless they resume their duties it is probable that all will be expelled.

THEY COME HIGH.

Cost of the Recent campaign in the Indian Country.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—An estimate sent to Congress by the secretary of war, to supply a deficiency in the quartermaster's department, tells the story of the cost of the Indian campaign just closed. The sum of $1,300,000 is asked for the principal items of which are $935,016 for transportation of troops and supplies, and $187,702 for extra clothing, camp and garrison equipment necessary to fit out for the winter campaign; $70,000 to replace horses broken down in the campaign and for the purchase of ponies, and $87,000 to cover the difference in cost of supplies purchased for troops in the field and the contract prices at the post from which the troops were drawn. There were other expenses under the supply department that will probably bring the total cost of the campaign up to $2,000,000—a sum sufficient to have given the Sioux the $100,000 annual appropriation promised them for a period of twenty years.

CANADIANS EXPECTED IT.

Greatly Pleased with the Decision in the Bering Sea Case.

TORONTO, ONT., Feb. 5.—The deputy minister of justice for the Dominion, speaking of the decision of the supreme court of the United States, in the case of the British schooner W. P. Sayward, said: "The decision was what was expected here, but at the same time it has been received with great satisfaction. It seems to be now assured that the applicants for a writ of prohibition will get a decision from the supreme court on the merits of the case. This shows that the Canadian government has been justified by the confidence it has reposed in the highest judicial tribunal of the United States, that it would not allow political considerations to influence it in the slightest where the rights of any litigant are involved. The matter will not rest until a rule nisi is returnable."

APPROPRIATION BILLS

OCCUPIED THE TIME OF THE MEMBERS IN BOTH HOUSES.

Several Heated Passages Between Messrs. Dawes and Cockrell Owing to the Latter's Criticism of Edward Atkinson's Views on the Silver Question—Fortification and the Military Academy Bills Passed—J. A. Owenby Discharged by the House—Other Business.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—The senate Wednesday passed a joint resolution authorizing George H. Skidmore, United States vice consul general at Kanagawa, Japan, to accept a silver medal presented to him by the emperor of Japan for saving a Japanese subject from death by drowning. Mr. Blair presented the credentials of his successor, Jacob H. Gallinger, and they were placed on file. The senate then went into executive session and a few minutes later, when the doors were reopened, resumed consideration of legislative business. In order to show that all ignorance as to legislation is not confined to the farmers and labor associations, Mr. Cockrell read a resolution of the Philadelphia Maritime Exchange protesting against the passage by the house of representatives of the senate bill of May, 1890, for the monthly purchase of 4,500,000 ounces of silver. There was no such bill, he said, passed by the senate in May, 1890, and yet those "wiseacres" in Philadelphia were meeting and protesting against it. He then went on to criticize severely the views and action of Mr. Edward Atkinson on the silver and other economic questions and was prompted and encouraged by Messrs. Stewart and Reagan. Mr. Dawes said that Mr. Atkinson was a constituent of his, but his political and economical affiliations were with the senators who were traducing him. Mr. Atkinson was the peer of those senators and an Honest and Intelligent Investigator.

His contributions to industrial statistics would live long after any of the effusions of those who now turned their backs on their associate and ally. There was some further interchange of sentiment between the two senators in the same general direction, after which the fortification bill was taken up and proceeded with. The amendment reported by the appropriations committee appropriating $400,000 for rifled sea coast mortars of cast iron, hooped with steel, with Mr. Chandler's amendment to it, requiring them to be wholly of steel, gave rise to a long discussion. The amendment to increase the appropriation for the board of ordnance and fortification, to make purchases, experiments and tests of the most effective guns, small arms, etc., from $100,000 to $200,000, was agreed to with an amendment adding a civilian to the board at a salary of $6,000 per annum and traveling expenses. The bill was then passed. The senate then proceeded to the consideration of the military academy bill. There was but one amendment, and that one to the amount of $5,000, offered to the bill. It was agreed to, and the bill passed. The pension appropriation bill was then taken up and went over as the unfinished business. The senate then proceeded to executive business, and at 5 adjourned.

Business of the House.

In the house Mr. Dingley reported a resolution from the silver pool committee, discharging J. A. Owenby from the custody of the sergeant-at-arms. Adopted. Senate bill was passed for the relief of James H. Smith, late postmaster at Memphis, Tenn. The house then went into committee of the whole on the diplomatic and consular appropriation bill. In speaking to the diplomatic bill, Mr. McAdoo, of New Jersey, gave his hearty assent to the position taken by the secretary of state in his letter to Representative Baker, of New York, relative to reciprocity with Canada. He said the United States should have unrestricted trade and commercial union with Canada or it should have no commercial relations with her. The bill was, after further discussion, laid aside with a favorable recommendation, and the committee proceeded to the consideration of the sundry civil appropriation bill. After a long discussion the committee rose, and the diplomatic appropriation bill was passed. On motion of Mr. Struble, of Iowa, the conference report was adopted on a bill providing for an additional justice of the supreme court of Arizona. The house then adjourned.

Senator Scofield Unseated.

MADISON, WIS., Feb. 5.—Senator Scofield, Republican, was unseated yesterday by a strict party vote of 17 to 14. The senate decided to give the seat for the first district to Mr. Fetzer, Democrat, the contestant. The ground for unseating Scofield was fraud in the election.

LATE NEWS IN BRIEF.

At the stockholders' meeting of the National lead trust, at New York, Wednesday, the trustees declared a dividend of 20 cents per share, payable on April 15, to be the first of quarterly dividends, which shall hereafter be declared.

The ministerial crisis continues. Signor Crisp's resignation has not been accepted by the king and may not be, in view of the indications that none of his opponents, including Marquis de Rudini and Signor Zanardelli, have been able to form a working cabinet.

Honduras is reported to be on the verge of a revolution. That is the state of things, according to a message which reached a New York house Wednesday. The dispatch came from Tegucigalpa, and declared that there was every probability that war would break out again.

In the house of commons Wednesday Mr. Gladstone moved the second reading of the bill to remove religious disability, and made a long and earnest speech in support of the measure. After a protracted debate, during which the Right Hon. William Henry Smith spoke against the bill, a vote was taken and the bill was defeated by a vote of 256 to 223.

The steamer Circe, which arrived at Baltimore last week from Glasgow via Halifax, and which had nearly finished loading on her return trip, sank yesterday at her dock. Her cargo of flour is being removed as rapidly as possible. It is, of course, considerably damaged. Some person on board the Circe is supposed to have left open one of her waste pipes, through which the sea entered.

The Manchester Ship Canal company, which is digging a ship canal from Manchester to the sea, with the idea of making Manchester a port of entry, has been forced to appeal to the corporation of this city for assistance. The canal company in its appeal says that its statutory borrowing powers will shortly be exhausted, and that £1,700,000 will then be required to push the work to a successful termination.

SENATORIAL ORATORS.

WALTER WELLMAN ANALYZES THEM FOR OUR READERS' BENEFIT.

Engalls and His Voice—Eustis' Natural Oratory—Wolcott's Direct Words—Morgan's Classic Sentences—Cockrell's Feline Ways—Stewart, the Pedestrian.

[Special Correspondence.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—This has been a great session for the senatorial orators. The long and somewhat sensational debate on the election bill has given them an opportunity to all their eloquence before crowded galleries and an attentive country. Oratory is not one of the lost arts in the senate, but the number of genuine orators is sadly limited. Without doubt Mr. Ingalls is the first orator of the senate. He is the only man who can attract crowds which fill every nook and cranny of the chamber. When Ingalls is announced to speak people begin arriving at the senate two or three hours before the session is to open, to make sure of getting seats. Every senator is in his place, and scores of members of the house come over to listen to the man from Kansas.

Since oratory is a thing comparative and entirely dependent for rating upon the judgment of those who listen, this sort of compliment means something. It means that Ingalls is a great orator, though it must be admitted by his warmest admirers that he is not a natural orator. He is, in fact, a fine example of what patient study, earnest determination, long practice, will do for one who desires to excel as a public speaker. Ingalls has taught himself to speak, has practiced, rehearsed, experimented, with his brilliant wife for a critic or a mirror as a mentor. The only physical qualification for oratory which he possesses is a great deep, full voice—a surprising, delightful voice, which his study of elocution has made the most of. No attentive ear need miss a word, not even a syllable, of one of Ingalls' addresses.

Yet with all this Ingalls is a satirist rather than an orator. He is a tremendous opponent, but a poor advocate. He lacks sympathy, magnetism, and could never stir an audience to tears or passion. But he can rouse distrust, excite ridicule, induce contempt. He is a sword which swishes and slices through the air to cleave or slash the enemy. If Ingalls were to take to the law he should be a prosecuting attorney, never a counselor or advocate. Ingalls' success as an orator shows how strong is the modern taste for that which is brilliant, polished, refined, dramatic.

Our most eloquent senators, those who speak with most feeling, who have the greater faculty of stirring the imaginations of their hearers, are from the south. They are earnest of manner, florid of style. They are not afraid to display passion, sentiment, tenderness by all the natural arts of expression. A type of this class, perhaps the best example, is Senator Daniel, of Virginia. A good voice, a fair figure, admirable flow of language, magnetic earnestness, poetic style, make him almost an ideal orator of the old school.

The greatest natural orator in the senate is Mr. Eustis, of Louisiana. He is a big man physically, has a full voice, fair elocution, and a deliberative, imposing style which is exceedingly effective. If Ingalls is a rapier, and Daniel a swinging censer, Eustis is a huge, majestic steam hammer. He lacks Ingalls' clear and distinct articulation, but he has an advantage over Ingalls in that he varies his pace and his tone—now speaking slowly, while the hearers wait expectantly each coming crushing word, and again pouring forth a torrent: first his voice fills the chamber with reverberations, and then it falls to a loud whisper. In these methods he resembles Henry Ward Beecher or Charles Bradlaugh. A teacher of elocution could take Eustis in hand and make him one of the greatest orators of his time, as he is already one of the greatest orators of the senate.

Young Edward Wolcott, of Colorado, surely comes after Ingalls and Eustis among the Senate orators. Like Ingalls he eschews gesture, and like Eustis he is no student of elocution. But he has a voice musical and winning, an easy flow of language, and courage and sincerity so obvious that his hearers readily take him to their hearts. He employs none of the stock aids to oratory, like quotations, metaphors, sententious phrases, rounded periods, but is as direct, concise and simple as man and words can be.

Yet he is not matter of fact, could not be tiresome if he chose. His success is that of frankness, of the art of generalization without following every thought out to its full limit of expression, and of investing even commonplace statements of facts with graceful words swiftly and earnestly spoken. Senator Wolcott prepares all his speeches, places the copy on his desk when he speaks, and then never deigns to look at it.

If Wolcott is a fluent speaker, what shall be said of Morgan, of Alabama? Here is one of the most remarkable orators ever heard in the American senate. Making no pretensions to eloquence, he is nevertheless one of the senators well worth following. His delivery seems almost automatic. He stands like a pillar, without motion of hands or movement of body. His voice never varies its tone. There is not the slightest attempt at elocution or modulation. "What a prosy man!" the careless listener would say. But give close attention and you will be amazed, for there comes rolling forth a stream of the purest English ever heard in the senate or any other public body, even and clear as the running of water from a spring.

Apparently without any greater effort than opening his mouth, as if he had been wound up with a key, Mr. Morgan speaks for hours at a stretch, never using a word which is not perfect in its place, never uttering an awkward sentence, never halting or repeating. Nor is he dull, except in manner. His thought is as rich as his vocabulary. With skill in the arts of the actor and the orator—skill like Ingalls', or even Daniel's—he would be the most eloquent man in the senate. Mr. Morgan never prepares his speeches, except to think over what he wants to say. If he puts anything on paper it is mere memoranda, a skeleton which his phenomenal command of language clothes in flesh and blood. Where is there another man living who can rise to his feet and pour forth classics?

Senator Cockrell, of Missouri, is in his way an orator. If it be the purpose of eloquence to impress hearers, convince them, convert them, Mr. Cockrell is eloquent. He is the most vehement speaker in the senate. He is known among the habitués of the chamber as "the feline orator," and the title is a good one. There is something peculiarly feline in the manner in which Mr. Cockrell claws the air in gesticulation, spreads his fingers far apart and closes them convulsively, opens his mouth wide and closes it snappishly in giving emphasis, and in the way in which he leans his body forward, bobs and shakes his head and shrugs his shoulders, like a cat getting its back up, in his remarkable earnestness. Mr. Cockrell is pugnacious, persistent, implacable, insistent, intolerant; he is, moreover, nearly always right and victorious.

Senator Stewart is now known as "the pedestrian orator." Until he made his famous speech on the cloture rule a few days ago he had not been suspected of effectiveness as a public speaker. It had indeed been the common supposition that he was dreary and wearisome; that he hummed and droned. Formerly when he rose to speak his brother senators nearly always paid him the compliment of retiring to the cloak rooms. But there comes a moment in every man's career when through some inspiration he surpasses himself, rises far above his usual level, astonishes all observers. So it was with Mr. Stewart on this occasion. Never before had he shown so much spirit, so much power. It happened that one row of chairs was for a distance of thirty feet unoccupied by senators. Mr. Stewart took possession of this runway, and walking rapidly from one side of the chamber to the other—facing first the Republicans and then appealing to the Democrats from their midst—poured out a torrent of argument, of warning and of prophecy which made a profound impression upon all who heard it.

There are many other orators in the senate worth writing about. Senator Gorman, the leader of the Democratic hosts during the recent struggle, and now generally regarded as "a coming man," is developing oratorical abilities of no mean order. His thin, sharp voice, somewhat like Maj. McKinley's, has a dramatic tremulousness in it which quickly catches the sympathies of auditors.

Senator Hoar, the Republican leader, is not a great orator, but he is an earnest, effective speaker. Senator Aldrich, who had charge of the cloture rule, is a direct, frank, businesslike talker, and one whom the ladies in the galleries always listen to, for he is, next to Hiscock, the handsomest of the senators. A fluent, bold speaker is Joe Blackburn, of Indiana. Voorhees is like Ingalls, better as an opponent than as an advocate. If Cockrell is the feline orator, Voorhees is the tiger. He is sometimes terrible and vicious in his onslaughts, an enemy to be dreaded and avoided. A great orator who has had his day, and who is now a thin, weak old man without voice or teeth, but still, thanks to his great intellectual powers, an "old man eloquent," is Mr. Evans.

The following are the conditions on which children are placed in families:

1. That the applicants be of good moral character, and furnish satisfactory references and recommendations.
2. That the children be given a fair trial, and if not suited, to be returned within sixty days.

3. That they be kindly treated, comfortably clothed, given medical attendance when necessary, and be protected from evil example and immoral influences.

4. That they be given not less than five months' schooling each year, and that they be required to attend church and Sabbath school when possible.

5. That they be free at 18 years of age, and receive a good outfit of clothing and a bounty of from $50 to $100.

We recommend that all applicants for children write to the superintendent before coming for a child.

No child can be returned after the expiration of the time for trial without giving due notice, stating reasons in writing, and obtaining the consent of a majority of the board of trustees.

Persons taking children are required to pay all expenses from and to the Home.

Children may be visited once a year or oftener, by some one duly authorized, and the right of recalling a child at any time, when its welfare demands it, is reserved.

We recommend the legal adoption of children, whenever practicable, especially to the childless.

Persons wishing to apply for children should in all cases write to the superintendent for information.

PERSONAL GOSSIP.

Governor Hill has held offices continuously for twenty-one years.

The editor of The New York Dry Goods Journal is named George Washington Bible.

Alfred Mace, a son of the retired English pugilist, Jen Mace, is conducting a series of gospel meetings.

George Graham Vest is the first senator in Missouri since the days of Thomas Benton to be honored with a third term.

Bishop Hare, of South Dakota, who has lived among the Indians for so many years, has acquired the habit of smoking "kinnikinnick."

The income of Lord Revelstoke, the head of the house of Baring, will not in future exceed $2,000 a year. It was once more than $40,000.

The new archbishop of York, Dr. Magee, formerly bishop of Peterborough, is the first Irishman who has ever become primate of England.

President Moffatt, of the Denver and Rio Grande road, travels about the country in a private car which cost $45,000, which is more than he paid for his home in Denver.

State Senator W. P. Peter, of Maryland, a descendant of a collateral branch of the Washington family, possesses a Masonic jewel worn by George Washington at his death.

W. A. Harris, the Alliance leader of Leavenworth county, Kan., was a colonel in Pickett's famous Confederate division and was with that dashing commander at Gettysburg.

The late Duke of Bedford sat in the house of commons for twenty-five years and in the house of lords for eighteen years, in all a parliamentary career of forty-three years, without opening his lips.

In Senator Sawyer's new Washington home is a ballroom in Moorish style, designed from drawings of a room in the Alhambra. The draperies, hangings, divans and all are of an Oriental character.

Dr. J. H. Gallinger, who has been elected United States senator from New Hampshire, was a compositor on The Cincinnati Gazette twenty-five years ago, and studied medicine in the intervals of his labors at the case.

Robert Buchell, the new mayor of Oxford, England, lived for many years in America, and became in that time thoroughly Americanized. For some time he resided in Terre Haute, Ind., where he was successful in business.

Herman Hollerith, the inventor of the electric tabulating machine with which the totals of the census of 1890 were summed up, is a statistician as well as an electrician, and has made census work a special study for several years.

"Paddy Miles" is the soldier's pet name for the pure blooded American, Gen. Miles, who is as much the pet of the privates in the United States army as ruddy faced, white whiskered George, of Cambridge, was in the English army.

Ex-State Senator Stephen Griswold, of Brooklyn, N. Y., has a bouquet of pressed flowers from the garden of Gethsemane, which was presented to Mrs. Griswold by the late Emperor Alexander, of Russia, a short time before his tragic death.

Vice President Morton has a smooth shaven face, his eyes are blue and his nose Roman. His mouth large and firm. When he presides over the senate he always wears a black frock coat that is buttoned up tightly. His manners are precise and somewhat formal.

LIGHT AND AIRY.

Kneeling at One's Feet.
How glad a sight to see a man
Come kneeling at one's feet,
I often dreamed that one would come,
And the dream was very sweet.
I hoped and prayed that he would come,
And at my feet would kneel;
And I've imagined many times,
The thrill that I should feel.
And he has come and he has knelt,
And if the thrill I've missed,
'Twas very nice to have him there—
The old chiropodist.
—Boston Courier.

Proof Positive.

Dashaway—I went into a drug store yesterday to get a bottle of cough mixture, and met a fellow named Wanger, who said he used to go to school with you. He impressed me as being the biggest fool I ever saw.

Clevertown—Indeed! What made you think so?
Dashaway—He was buying a bottle of the same cough mixture I was.—Harper's Bazar.

Florence's Mistake.

Poor, dear little Flo
Up the aisle did go.
In her brand new winter suit;
'Twas her heart's delight,
For the fit was tight,
And she knew it looked quite cute.
But poor little Flo
Of course didn't know
That quite plain to every one's view
Was a tag of red—
"$4.10"—it said,
And a smile was in every pew.
—Brooklyn Eagle.

Epoch.

The transition from long, lingering and painful sickness to robust health marks an epoch in the life of the individual. Such a remarkable event is treasured in the memory and the agency whereby the good health has been attained is gratefully blessed. Hence it is that such is heard in praise of Electric Bitters. So many feel they owe their restoration to health, to the use of the Great Alternative and Tonic. If you are troubled with any disease of Kidneys, Liver or Stomach, of long or short standing you will surely find relief by use of Electric Bitters. Sold at 50c. and $1 per bottle, at Baltzly's Drug Store.

The senior proprietor of this paper has been subject to frequent colds for some years, which were sure to lay him up if not doctored at once. He finds that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is reliable. It opens the secretions, relieves the lungs and restores the system to a healthy condition. If freely used as soon as the cold is contracted, and before it has become settled in the system, it greatly lessens the attack and often cures in a single day what would otherwise have been a severe cold.—Northwestern Hotel Reporter, Des Moines, Ia. 50 cent bottles for sale by Morgenthaler & Heister.

Life is Miserly.

To thousands of people who have the taint of scrofula in their blood. The agonies caused by the dreadful running sores and other manifestations of this disease are beyond description. There is no other remedy equal to Hood's Sarsaparilla for scrofula, salt rheum, and every form of blood disease. It is really so sure to benefit all who give it a fair trial. Be sure to get Hood's.

A Good Record.—"I have sold Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for ten years," says druggist E. B. Legg, of Vail, Ia., "and have always warranted it and never had a bottle returned. During the past 90 days I have sold twelve dozen and it has given perfect satisfaction in every instance." It does not dry up a cough, but loosens and relieves it. It will cure a severe cold in less time than other treatment. 50 cent and $1 bottles for sale by Morgenthaler & Heister.

The Pulpit and Stage.

Rev. F. M. Shront, Pastor United Brethren Church, Blue Mound, Kas., says: "I feel it my duty to tell what wonders King's New Discovery has done for me. My lungs were badly diseased, and my parishioners thought I could live only a few weeks. I took five bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery and am sound and well, gaining 26 lbs in weight."

Author Love's Manager Love's Funny Folks Combination, writes: "After a thorough trial and convincing evidence, I am confident Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, beats 'em all, and cures when everything else fails." The greatest kindness I can do my thousand of friends is to urge them to try it. Free trial bottles at Z. T. Baltzly's Drug Store. Regular size 50c and $1.00.
